World To Greet New Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In Rome they throw crockery into the streets. In New York the city throws a free party for thousands in Central Park. In San Francisco they are throwing party makings to six gorillas.

On such varied notes will the world bid farewell to 1971 today, ending the year that was with traditional toasts, champagne celebrations and perhaps a pair of ear plugs for those who prefer to sleep through it all.

Guy Lombardo will give the midnight downbeat for Auld Lang Syne in the grand ballroom of New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel, rounding out four decades as Father Time's minstrel.

In London the midnight arrival of the Royal Horse Guard and the Pipers and Drums of the Scots Guard will ensure that even the insensible know 1972 has arrived.

Italians brave their streets tonight knowing that housewives and apartment dwellers traditionally seize the occasion to clean house by throwing old crockery, pots and furniture out the window. Authorities appealed for restraint in the practice.

French gastronomes will feast on oysters and champagne. The traditional dinner for Danish families is boiled cod. In Spain the custom is to eat 12 grapes at midnight—the event is televised live.

One of the biggest parties in the world is in New York's Central Park where a parade, fireworks and dancing are expected to draw tens of thousands.

Indianapolis Jaycees expected more than 2,000 Hoosiers for an all-night party at the Union Station. Money raised will be used to restore the railroad station, a local historic landmark.

Today the San Francisco Zoo is throwing a "gorilla party"—for its six gorillas, naturally. Each beast gets an acacia tree to gnaw on and a six-foot bag of assorted food and goodies.

TRIPLE INJURY—Three persons received emergency treatment at Berger Hospital Friday morning following a two-car collision at 9:57 a.m. at the intersection of Pickaway and Ohio Sts. City patrolman Jim Francis reported that he would cite Miss Denise F. Swartz, 18, Route 1, Williamsport, for failing to yield the right of way to a van driven by Charlie Nichols, 37, of Route 1, Kingston. Miss Swartz suffered mouth injuries and a passenger in her car, Kathy Forcum, 23, Chillicothe, received a lacerated knee and possible broken leg. Nichols sought treatment for whiplash injuries.

Council Realigns Voting Wards

City Council's realignment of the four wards in special session Tuesday was a major undertaking and will affect all of Circleville's voting population within the next ten months.

After the initial problem of realigning the wards so voting power is about equal, the great work of setting up new precincts, changing voting records and informing citizens gets underway. Employees of the Board of Elections have indicated that the ward change will not affect voters in the May primary, but all alterations will be made and in effect by the general election in November.

The greatest effect of the redistricting will be on Circleville's First ward. When last determined—at least 30 years ago and most likely longer—the entire first ward was to encompass all that area north of Main St. With all the heavy development northward, that area has experienced a tremendous growth. In the November election, there were 3,077 voters registered there, more than three times the number shown in the next largest ward.

The ward change has the First Ward now starting at a line at Sharon Road off Pickaway St., extending westward to Court Street and to the corporation limits north and east.

WARD Two, which formerly covered an area south of Main St. and east of Court and north of Union St. now rests just south of the First Ward's Sharon St. boundary and stops at Mound St. To the east, the boundary is the corporation limit. From Mound St., the ward follows Pickaway St. until Hargus

WCH Police Smash Forgery Operation

Washington C.H. Police apprehended four suspects accused of masterminding a tri-state forgery ring Thursday.

According to a spokesman from the Washington C.H. Record-Herald, the four suspects have been charged with the forgery of thousands of dollars in money orders issued by Republic National Bank, Dallas, Tex.

Found in their booty was merchandise purchased in Circleville. City police are seeking information on any money orders cashed in the city in the past three weeks. The money orders would be for amounts between $55 and $85 and would have been cashed by either the two men or women suspects.

They apparently purchased the money orders from the Kroger Food Store chain for $1 and altered the price before cashing.

R. J. Kelly, chief agent for the Dallas Bank, said that the ring had been in operation for about three weeks, purchasing the first money order in Charleston, W. Va., and cashing it in Lansing, Mich.

Their car contained goods purchased in Indiana, Mich. and Ohio, to include, Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Columbus.

FOLLOWING flash flood warnings yesterday for the northern part of the state, Circleville and Pickaway County might be having much the same trouble this weekend. The water's washed down through Franklin County and has already swollen the Scioto River from 3.7 feet Thursday afternoon to almost 10 feet at 9:30 a.m. Friday. And it's still climbing. Flood stage is 14 feet at the Scioto River Bridge, Route 22. Weatherman says that some water might spill from the river north of that point at any time.

WE'VE heard of reporting the sighting of the first Robin of the year, but the last? That's what happened Friday. A Herald employee claimed to have seen the last one for 1971 about 7:30 a.m. (Continued on Page 2)

Ohio Driver Licenses Are Changed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Ohio drivers whose last names begin with L through Z will begin receiving the new four-year operator's licenses when they apply for renewal after Monday.

But those whose last names begin A through K will continue to receive three-year licenses throughout 1972.

The new four-year licenses will cost $5. The three-year licenses cost $4.

By January, 1973, every license issued will be for four years. They will be plastic with color pictures of the holder.

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles hopes to start issuing them to persons in the L—category who apply late this year.

License renewals are due on the birthday of the holder. Staggering the new licenses, said E. A. Whiteaker, is being done to eliminate the "big bulge year" where most of the renewals come due.

Whiteaker, administrative assistant to Bureau Registrar C. Donald Curry, said issuances continued after October 1971, and October, 1972, will total as high as they did for the two previous years.

Viet War Fronts Quiet; U.S. Planes Bomb Laos

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces joined the Viet Cong today in a New Year cease-fire across South Vietnam, but American air forces followed up their five-day attack on North Vietnam with more raids on enemy supply routes in Laos.

The 24-hour allied cease-fire began at 6 p.m. Saigon time, or 5 a.m. EST. A 72-hour truce proclaimed by the Viet Cong went into effect 17 hours earlier.

The South Vietnamese command reported only one violation during the first hours of the enemy cease-fire, an attack on a village in the Central Highlands. One militiaman was reported killed.

With the cease-fire applicable only in South Vietnam, U.S. B-52 bombers were diverted to targets in Laos. They joined scores of smaller fighter-bombers in raids near the Mu Gia, Ban Raving and Ban Karai passes, the entrances to the Ho Chi Minh trail.

U.S. reconnaissance planes were reported in the air over North Vietnam trying to assess the damage done by the American planes earlier this week to supply and fuel depots on the North Vietnamese side of the three passes.

The U.S. Command, in a preliminary assessment, said that 11 air defense sites were destroyed. A spokesman, Capt. James D'Entremont, said the U. S. planes encountered at least 30 surface-to-air missiles and one MIG interceptor during the five-day operation, and two of the three planes the Command reported lost were downed by the Soviet-built SAMs on Thursday, the last day of the raids.

The U. S. Command said the two planes were Navy craft that went down in the vicinity of Vinh, 160 miles south of Hanoi. It said one of the four fliers was rescued and the other three were listed as missing. North Vietnam said two of the pilots were captured but did not give their name or any other details about them.

Rape Suspect Arrested

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff has arrested 20-year-old Robert F. Cooper, Linden, and charged him with the rape of two county women Thursday.

The arrest followed extensive investigation by Radcliff. He had the man under surveillance for several weeks.

Cooper, who is on probation from a Fayette County court for assault with a deadly weapon, violated his parole and was apprehended Wednesday night.

Radcliff had him brought to the Franklin St. jail for questioning.

While there, he was positively identified by two of his victims. He later confessed to the rapes.

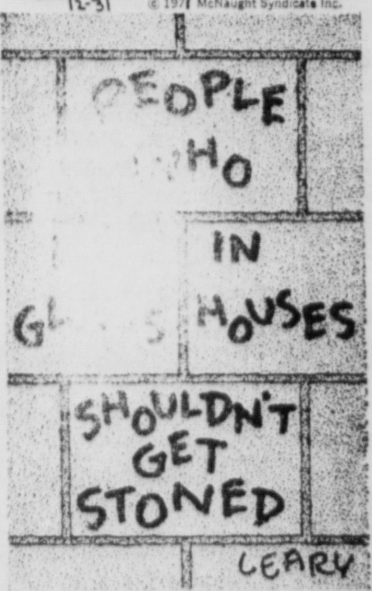

Motorcyclists Plead Innocent In Slaying

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Two members of the Hell's Henchmen motorcycle gang were being held without bond today after pleading innocent to charges of the first-degree murder of a third member of the gang.

The pleas were entered Thursday in Canton Municipal Court by David Davis, 22, of East Canton and Ronald Sells, 25, of Massillon. The two are charged with the shooting death of Odrie Cooper, 27, of Canton.

The charges were filed Wednesday after the skeleton of a man found in Stark County Sept. 28 was tentatively identified as Cooper who had been missing since July. He had been shot to death, authorities said.

1971 Events Fade Away As Bright New Year Beckons

An old year departs and a new one dawns.

This saying will take on meaning once again as the clock chimes and time takes its toll on the year 1971. It is time to bid farewell to the old year and herald in a new and untried 1972.

Circleville has enjoyed its share of stirring, pleasant and unusual events during the year that is nearing an end. Tragedy, sadness and grim reality also left their marks.

But in summary, it can be said that Pickaway County reaped the benefits of a progressive year with advances in growth and development. The same can be expected as the community moves into 1972.

Time marches on, whether mercilessly or unmercilessly can be debated. While separating us from past events by a barrier of hours, days, months and minutes, it does not have the power to blot out these events completely—though it isolates them to a place referred to as "past." So now, before the year is completely "past," the Herald offers a few of the events that became history during 1971.

JANUARY

The City of Circleville sponsored its first Twelfth Night ceremony with the traditional burning of Yule trees. The ceremony was held on the Circleville High School parking lot with a small brass ensemble from CHS providing appropriate holiday music.

Pickaway Manor was opened for business in Circleville.

Former County Superintendent of Schools George McDowell was recuperating at Grant Hospital, Columbus, after he collapsed at his home.

Pickaway County's District Public Library was in the midst of remodeling. The project involved remodeling, new seating and shelving and reorganization of volumes in a more orderly system.

W. W. Galvin, president of the Galvin group of newspapers, died at his apartment at Pompano Beach, Fla. at the age of 64. The chain included newspapers at Circleville, Washington C.H., Wilmington, Logan, Van Wert and Hillsboro. Galvin was also known in the breeding, training and racing of standard bred horses.

The Earnhart Hill Water District received a $500,000 FHA guaranteed loan and passed a resolution to advertise for bids for water distribution system construction.

William Rowe Kendrick, of Columbus, was found hanging from a pipe in a cell in city jail by police. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Berger Hospital. Kendrick, 24, had been arrested by the Highway Patrol for drunk driving, no operators license and speeding, and jailed in lieu of bond.

The first measurable snowfall and coldest temperatures of the season were recorded Jan. 17. One and one-eighth inches of white stuff fell and later, an overnight low of minus 3 degrees was recorded.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kocher, 119 N. Scioto St., celebrated her 101st birthday Jan. 21 with a few close friends at her home.

Extreme cold and icy winds battered Roundtown and Pickaway County, inflicting damage in varying degrees, shutting off phone service to a large area and playing havoc with other power lines. In nearby Lancaster a gas line ruptured sending flames high into the sky which were visible from Canal Winchester. Winds were gusting at 30-40 miles per hour. The wind continued for several days, and knocked out a plate glass window at Big Bear and Noel's Restaurant on Lancaster Pike.

As the holiday period began, the National Safety Council estimated that 400 to 500 persons would be killed in traffic accidents over the weekend. Motorists everywhere were warned about drinking and driving.

Free candy-striped minibuses will be available in Sacramento tonight to shuttle celebrants from one night spot to another.

For revelers who over-revel, the Maine Turnpike Authority will provide a complimentary "coffee break for safety." Similar free coffee is available for drivers on the Illinois tollway.

Police in Dearborn, Mich., and in Lake Zurich, Ill. both offered to drive residents home in an attempt to cut down on the number of accidents.

A Louisville, Ky., disc jockey got drunk on the air Tuesday as a warning of the dangers of drinking. Gary Burbank, 29, passed out after downing three-quarters of a fifth of whisky during the first 2½ hours of his WAKY broadcast.

"I'm smashed," he told his technicians. "Take over."

SWEARING IN —New Mayor Frank Barnhill, Auditor Marvene Turner and Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb were sworn in to office 10 a.m. this morning by Common Pleas Judge William Ammer. The ceremony was quiet and informal and attended by several friends and immediate family. Posing after the ceremony are from the left, Judge Ammer, Marvene Turner, Barnhill and Lamb.

MEMORIAL — A bronze plaque, dedicated in memory of retired Circleville Fire Chief Talmer Wise, was presented to the Circleville Fire Department Friday morning by Mayor Richard Gerhardt. The plaque, which read, "This Fire Truck is Dedicated In Honor and Tribute to Fire Chief Talmer Wise, Retired, Dec. 31, 1971, Mayor, Richard L. Gerhardt," will be placed on a 1972 pumper to be delivered in May. Wise died in a fiery fire engine-semi truck crash on Route 23, March 25. He was chief of the local station from July 16, 1926, until May 1, 1963, when he retired. Accepting the plaque from Gerhardt is Mrs. Wise. With her are Jack and Milo (Mack) Wise.

Armadillo Experiments Boost Leprosy Treatments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because not one, but two armadillos in Louisiana have developed leprosy, researchers say there is fresh hope that 15 million humans afflicted with the ancient disease will be cured.

Scientists say they also seek to dispel the belief held by some experts that the first time the hard-shelled mammals contracted the disease marked "a genetic fluke" rather than a medical breakthrough.

Last August, U.S. Public Health researchers at the government's leprosy hospital in Carville, La., announced with some fanfare that leprosy had shown up in one of 77 animals in a research colony.

All 77 had been injected with human leprosy bacteria since the experiment began in February, 1970.

With leprosy-afflicted animals to experiment on as models, scientists hoped to move toward a cure for humans or a preventative vaccine.

But conservative-minded scientists expressed skepticism that the success achieved in giving leprosy to a lone armadillo meant anything for the 15 million persons with the disease around the world, including 3,000 in the United States. There are 100 new cases in the U.S. each year.

Now, in a new report, researchers say a second armadillo has contracted the disease. The news first showed up in the "Star," a newspaper published by patients at the Carville hospital.

Scientists at the Gulf South Regional Institute of New Iberia, La., told the paper about the breakthrough in a story approved by Dr. Walder-mar F. Kirchheimer, chief of Carville's Laboratory Research Branch.

It said in part: "By assuring that the initially infected armadillo . . . was not a genetic fluke, non-representative of his species, the likelihood increases that more armadillos susceptible to HD (Hansen's Disease or leprosy) will be found."

And, aside from the potential for leprosy patients, the Carville researchers say the new findings may eventually lead to better understanding of why some people develop cancer while others escape and some answers to problems surrounding rejections of transplanted human hearts and other major organs.

Government Widens Case In Pentagon Papers Leak

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, a former colleague at the Rand Corp., are named in a new, 15-count indictment in the Pentagon papers case that observers say should make the government's prosecution easier.

Only Ellsberg, who has admitted giving the papers to newspapers, was named in an earlier indictment returned by a federal grand jury here. The action announced Thursday replaces it, enlarges the case against Ellsberg and adds Russo.

Vu Van Thai, a former South Vietnamese ambassador to the United States, and Lynda Sinyay, head of a Los Angeles advertising agency and a friend of both Ellsberg and Russo, are named as unindicted conspirators.

The indictment, returned secretly Wednesday, accused Ellsberg and Russo of conspiring with others to steal and make known once top-secret U.S. Department of Defense papers on the Vietnam war.

Ellsberg originally was accused only of unauthorized possession of the documents and converting them to his own use. The new 15 counts include charges of conspiracy, stealing, concealing, conveying and possessing government documents and receiving, communicating or retaining national defense

Rep. John Dowdy Is Convicted Of Taking Bribe

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Rep. John V. Dowdy, convicted of involvement in a $25,000 bribery scheme, is the first congressman in office to be found guilty of a criminal offense in 15 years.

The 59-year-old Texas Democrat, free today in Washington on his own recognizance, sat hunched over the defense table, staring grimly, Thursday as the jury foreman said guilty to each of the eight counts.

Dowdy, a 10-term congressman, was convicted on two counts of conspiring to accept a bribe from Nathan H. Cohen to help squash a Justice Department probe of Cohen's Maryland home improvements firm, causing interstate transport of the bribe and five counts of lying to a U.S. grand jury.

The last previous congressman convicted was the late Thomas J. Lane, D-Mass., sentenced to four months in prison in 1956 and fined $10,000 for income tax evasion. After he served the prison term he was re-elected to Congress twice.

Dowdy faces a possible maximum penalty of 40 years in prison and $40,000 in fines. Sentencing was delayed for seven days to allow filing motions for a new trial which one of Dowdy's attorneys, Leon H.A. Pierson, said would be done. He said several grounds were available but did not elaborate.

Cohen had no comment after the verdict was read. Some 80 witnesses appeared at the eight-week-long trial, but the prosecution's chief witness was Cohen, a businessman who the grand jury indictment named as coconspirator. He was granted immunity from prosecution in return for his testimony.

Cohen testified that Dowdy had promised to help him avoid prosecution when his now-defunct Monarch Construction Corp. was under Justice Department investigation for sales practices and dealings with low-income Washington residents. Cohen said Dowdy arranged for him to gain immunity as a witness before the House District Committee's special subcommittee on investigations, which Dowdy chaired.

Also submitted as prosecution evidence were recorded tapes of four conversations Cohen held with Dowdy last year. One of them, made with a recorder concealed in Cohen's clothing, contained a conversation during a visit to the congressman's office in January 1970.

Government Widens Case In Pentagon Papers Leak

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, a former colleague at the Rand Corp., are named in a new, 15-count indictment in the Pentagon papers case that observers say should make the government's prosecution easier.

Only Ellsberg, who has admitted giving the papers to newspapers, was named in an earlier indictment returned by a federal grand jury here. The action announced Thursday replaces it, enlarges the case against Ellsberg and adds Russo.

Vu Van Thai, a former South Vietnamese ambassador to the United States, and Lynda Sinyay, head of a Los Angeles advertising agency and a friend of both Ellsberg and Russo, are named as unindicted conspirators.

The indictment, returned secretly Wednesday, accused Ellsberg and Russo of conspiring with others to steal and make known once top-secret U.S. Department of Defense papers on the Vietnam war.

Ellsberg originally was accused only of unauthorized possession of the documents and converting them to his own use.

The new 15 counts include charges of conspiracy, stealing, concealing, conveying and possessing government documents and receiving, communicating or retaining national defense documents. The counts carry various penalties up to a maximum of $10,000 fine and 10 years in prison.

Observers said the conspiracy count is expected to make the government's case easier since it will allow U.S. attorneys to use hearsay statements of coconspirators and other evidence not otherwise admissible.

Also, observers added, the government will be required only to prove there was an agreement to commit an unlawful act and that at least one overt act was committed in the agreement.

Park Work Continues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Development of Deer Creek State Park in Pickaway and Fayette counties will continue, despite loss of a $1.8 million bond allocation through Gov. John Gilligan's veto of part of the state's capital improvements bill.

Marvin Katz, a Natural Resources Department spokesman, said the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has let a contract to develop a campground at the park.

And the state Department of Highways he said, received bids this month on more than $500,000 worth of road work in the area.

But Katz said use of revenue bond funds has to be limited to projects which produce enough revenue to retire the bonds. The $1.8 million allocation for Deer Creek, he said, was insufficient to provide a lodge, cabins or other facilities that could have produced enough revenue to retire the bonds.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some performers make the grade by persistence, grit and self-denial. Fannie Flagg insists that she literally has stumbled innocently into the best breaks of her career.

Fannie crashed into the mass public's consciousness as the stunt girl on Allan Funt's old "Candid Camera." She airily and repeatedly drove a car through the side of a "drive-in" bank.

Earlier she had entered the "Miss Alabama" preliminaries to the "Miss America" pageant—and lost. She did get elected "Miss Congeniality," however, and that provided her with a drama scholarship at the Pittsburgh Playhouse.

As she tells it, she happened to be in the right place at the right time to be cast as Dick Van Dyke's sharp-tongued sister-secretary in the hit CHS series. She will soon be returning to Van Dyke's Arizona base for another intensive six months of production for next season.

"I was doing concerts, some stock and had an occasional film part," she recalled. "I was in Hollywood and went around to my agents' West Coast office, a sort of courtesy call to meet the staff. People were dropping in and being pleasant. Then a man walked in, looked me over carefully without saying a word and walked out."

Fannie got the job on the show the next day. The man was Byron Paul, Dick's partner-manager, and Fannie had turned up when a frantic hunt was on for someone bearing a family resemblance to Van Dyke.

"He was on his way out when somebody told him to take a look at me," she said.

and starred in her fifth-grade play. She had just cast her first vote and had her own TV interview show in the southern city when she decided to invade New York. Within a week she had sold four sketches to a nightclub revue and had a job in the production. "Candid Camera," for which she dreamed up stunts and worked in them, followed for two seasons.

Several seasons ago, Fannie had a hit record album which contained a hilarious impression of the then-first lady, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson. During the Van Dyke hiatus she has turned out another smash comedy recording, this time doing an impression of another Southerner, Martha Mitchell. ("She was harder to do than Ladybird," Fannie said. "Her own material is funnier than anything you could make up.")

Legislation Pushed For Ohio Elections

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted Brown says he has urged Gov. John Gilligan to support legislation he will propose to make it easier for voters to cast ballots for national convention delegates.

Brown said Wednesday he had advised Gilligan that the legislation is necessary because of possible complications resulting from a number of presidential candidates entering the Ohio primaries.

Armed Robbers Hit Bank In Mexico

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — Four armed robbers escaped with about $21,000 Wednesday from the National Bank branch in Guadalajara.

"This is a class struggle," said the band's leader as the robbers fled.

It was the second time this month the bank was robbed. On Dec. 17 robbers escaped with about $40,000.

Within a week she had sold four sketches to a nightclub revue and had a job in the production, "Candid Camera," for which she dreamed up stunts and worked in them, followed for two seasons.

Several seasons ago, Fannie had a hit record album which contained a hilarious impression of the then-first lady, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson. During the Van Dyke hiatus she has turned out another smash comedy recording, this time doing an impression of another Southerner, Martha Mitchell. ("She was harder to do than Ladybird," Fannie said. "Her own material is funnier than anything you could make up.")

Legislation Pushed For Ohio Elections

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted Brown says he has urged Gov. John Gilligan to support legislation he will propose to make it easier for voters to cast ballots for national convention delegates.

Brown said Wednesday he had advised Gilligan that the legislation is necessary because of possible complications resulting from a number of presidential candidates entering the Ohio primaries.

Armed Robbers Hit Bank In Mexico

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP)—Four armed robbers escaped with about $21,000 Wednesday from the National Bank branch in Guadalajara.

"This is a class struggle," said the band's leader as the robbers fled.

It was the second time this month the bank was robbed. On Dec. 17 robbers escaped with about $40,000.

Draftees Want In

Conditions in many fields have a habit of changing rapidly these days. But one which defies imagination is the attitude of many Army draftees toward an early release from their service. They are fighting the idea, even re-enlisting so they won't have to return to civilian status.

It was only yesterday that many draftees were fighting to stay out of the Army. Some of them were very resourceful in establishing ruses to refrain from military service, and if that failed thousands of them sought refuge in Canada and other havens from U.S. draft laws.

Many conditions are different now. The hysteria over the Vietnam war has all but disappeared, because America's participation is successfully being wound down. The odds are excellent that an enlistee or draftee today will not serve in Vietnam.

Also, there is the domestic economy to consider. A high unemployment rate, even higher among veterans, is not an attractive alternative to many young men just beginning to enjoy new amenities introduced into service life.

Military pay boosts which began by doubling the pay of the lowest ranking servicemen have helped make military service considerably more attractive to those who were inducted reluctantly.

At least 60,000 mn will be discharged from the Army up to six months early because of cutbacks in personnel budgets made by Congress several months ago. In traditional form, the Army called for volunteers to fill its early discharge quota. Again traditionally — although surprisingly this time — there have been few volunteers.

The weeding process has begun. Only men serving their initial terms of enlistment, whether volunteers or draftees, will be cut from the roster. The men can prevent an early discharge by reenlisting for another term, usually two years.

Faced by an uncertain civilian future just now, no advance discharge notice and no retirement pay of any kind, many are doing just that. Others are once again resorting to ruses — this time to stay in.

First sergeants who went through the ordeal of training men who were hostile to anyone wearing a uniform now have the same tribulations in reverse on their hands.

In its quest for all-volunteer status by mid-1973, the Army has been working doubletime to keep its men happy. If it isn't careful, it may overshoot the mark.

Oh, well, the surplus privates can always be sent to officer candidate school.

The New Year

New Year's Eve is greeted by each according to age and temperament.

For the very young it is another welcome stone on those long miles toward the freedom and independence they associate with maturity.

They have still to learn that life imposes restrictions and unwanted burdens at every age.

For some of their elders a new year brings regret for lost youth, for so many years gone and so little accomplished, and precious few left. For others, however, time's passage is bittersweet — the end of the long journey is in sight.

Theirs is the sentiment of Swinburne, who wrote: "We thank with brief thanksgiving whatever gods may be, that no life lives forever . . . that even the weariest river winds somewhere safe to sea."

Perhaps no other holiday is more universally celebrated than New Year's Day — or at least more intensely. There is something about the beginning of a new year that makes the event of supreme importance to man.

This year is, of course, no exception, and seers, pundits, analysts and several varieties of economist have announced what the new year has in store for the U.S. They are almost unanimously optimistic.

May the new year be a period of peace, plenty and prosperity is a wish that all Americans will second as they welcome 1972.

Nixon's Chances In '72

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

For those who take their pleasure in watching events and matching prophecy to performance, 1972 is going to be the most fascinating year ever. Unwilling to wait on history, President Nixon has bodily set out to coerce history in several directions. Our White House poker player has, in effect, made a series of huge bets and then capped everything by making the final bet that all the preliminary pots will have been raked in on time for the big show, the election in November. If he succeeds in the thing which he persists in calling the "game plan," Richard Nixon will beat anyone the Democrats nominate. But if there is one serious slip along the line he will be courting a stunning defeat.

As 1971 fades away, the economic aspects of the Nixon game plan seem to be well in hand. There is a fine irony connected with this. Economists and financial editors who have nothing good to say about price and wage controls are nevertheless convinced that we are in for what they call a "period of cyclical, long-lived improvement." How can this be? Well, for one thing, the stage was set for recovery before Nixon started Phase Two, or even Phase One, so the "controls" are merely "cosmetic" (to quote Milton Friedman), or superfluous. (A Wall Street Journal story says that prices on many products were falling anyway, and controls thus impose rather meaningless ceilings.) Then there are the currency devaluations and the removal of the temporary 10 per cent import tax. With lower American prices and an end to tariff reprisal threats, foreign trade must be in better balance. The inhibiting effects of price- and wage controls presumably won't show up before next November, which must explain the egregious optimism of my friend Bob Bleiberg, the editor of Barron's, who has always had an extremely low opinion of Nixon — or any other politician, for that matter — as an economist.

If it were only a matter of economics, the hopefulness expressed by H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, the normally silent "Germans" who run the White House, would not seem premature. But Nixon's biggest and most chancy bet is on keeping the jangling nationalisms of the world itself under control throughout 1972. Can it be done through summery? In his attempts to dissuade Mrs. Indira Gandhi from using force against Pakistan, Nixon discovered that moral lectures were not enough. Nixon and Henry Kissinger have spent an inordinate amount of time and energy in trying to end the Cold War between the West and the Marxist powers only to be frustrated as peacemakers by the new Cold War that has broken out inside the Communist world.

The Indian-Pakistani affair was the first open engagement in the struggle between Red China and Soviet Russia for the control of Asia, a struggle that promises to be all the more vicious because the principals regard each other as unspeakable heretics. Wars within an ideology can be as devastating as any other (the two world wars of the Twentieth Century each began as a fight between nations of the capitalist West). Having used India, a "client," to beat Red China's ally, Pakistan, Soviet Russia may want to desert for a while, maybe until after next November. This is Nixon's great hope. But events may prove uncontrollable, what with Egypt, another Soviet client, straining at the leash to cross the Suez Canal and assail the Israelis with Russian-made arms.

A particularly disconcerting bit of news is that one Soviet satellite has succeeded in knocking out another Soviet satellite some 150 miles above the earth. If this means that the Soviets have really hit upon an infallible method of destroying high-speed, rocket-propelled capsules, the missiles from our Polaris-Poseidon submarines might be intercepted, too. Soviet confidence in a missile-destroying weapon wouldn't necessarily mean a big war, but it could lead to Muscovite recklessness in using its clients to forment little wars. New open struggle would hurt the prospects of any "cyclical, long-lived improvement."

Nevertheless, Nixon's bold bets are breathtaking, and he has a fifty-fifty chance of winning it all in November. From the spectator's standpoint at least, 1972 is going to be a great year. How much more satisfactory to be a columnist than an exporter, a banker or an engaged diplomat.

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

SATURDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning can have strange and highly emotional situations connected with it; those who celebrated too much last night will certainly realize it! However, later in the day and evening excellent influences are in effect for making New activity for greater success.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal day to talk over with friends and experts how best to operate so you can realize your more cherished goals. Plan your time carefully, or you could overdo and get sick. Think constructively.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You think you should relax today or tonight, but you could miss out on some important and unusual opportunities. Plan how to operate better in the future so you do not need so much help from others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are thinking very clearly and wisely now and can bring your finest ideas and talents to the attention of others who can be helpful to you. Get enough needed exercise. Dress attractively and go visiting around.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't neglect to invite people who can be helpful to you in the future toany entertainments planned now. You like to have a place of prominence, but don't be pushy to try to get there. Use diplomacy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to be more alert to what others have in mind if you are to advance in whatever sphere of endeavor is most important to you now. Put that artistic talent to work, also. Make this a memorable evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Sit down with associates of all kinds and plan the new year wisely, know just where you are headed and how best to get there. State your aims to close friends. They lend a helping hand.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It is wise to do those things today that will please those who have any power over you. You can easily discuss how to make the new year routines more efficient. Keep cheerful and make this a wonderful day, p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You had better get those duties handled early so you can later have a delightful time with friends and relatives. Plan how you can add to your present holding. Avoid one who drinks too much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Start the new year right by being with those individuals you want in your life in the future. You are able to see more clearly what you desire in the future. Make notes so you do not forget new ideas you get.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are now inspired just how to handle associates better in the future and how to increase your income. You can talk with experts in a social way and get good ideas. Show others you are a generous and kind person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day to get together with associates for dinner and talk over how to have more success in the new year. Much conversation brings excellent results. Plan to work more efficiently in the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Diplomatically show higher-ups you will cooperate with them where some outstanding ideas are concerned. Plan how to become more efficient at your own work. Try not to spend too much money today, tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who will be full of vim and vigor and is quick to grasp at anything that will help him or her advance and gain what is desired. Teach while young to think of the desires and needs of others as well, if there is to be a happy relationship and real success in the lifetime. Any profession that deals with making changes is good since there is much ability at this. Sports are fine.

"The Star impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There is little reason for you not to make full use of this Sunday to decide your overall aims and ambitions, to make the resolutions best suited to your character and situation and to progress wherever possible. Too bad it is not a week day when much action could be going on, but whatever is possible to do on Sunday, do it.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are full of creative ideas now and can get them into full swing by early planning. Take loved one out to a fine dinner, etc., and have a delightful time together. Avoid one who is a bore.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Home is your best place of operation now and you can establish more harmony and comfort in that important realm of your life as well. Entertain outsiders charmingly and get right results. Avoid heavy expenditures.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Out to the places of worship sermons, etc., early that will give you the inspiration you are seeking. Study your newspaper well for the ideas you need, also. Plan the future more wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Enlarge thinking and expand horizons to include greater things so the future can be far more prosperous and happy for you. Use good practical sense and get right results. Evening excellent for study.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can do much to please your finest friends today and make the new year start working properly for you. Increase their happiness as well as your own. Accept some invitation to a worthwhile social affair.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can start the wheels rolling where personal goals are concerned. Talk over with advisers whatever it is that you are not sure about. The evening is fine for a family get-together. Avoid arguments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can sit down with good friends and allies and state your aims, coordinate yours with theirs. Do those things that will help you gain your personal desires. Overeating is not good now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) No better day than this to handle that civic affair you have been procrastinating about for so long. A bigwig appreciates your fine ability today and gives you a needed boost. Don't retire too late in p.m. Get an early start in the morning.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some happy idea can be put in operation quickly now with real success following. Show your friends you are a delightful companion to have. More affection for mate can bring true understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy and put those obligations behind you as quickly as you can so you later have time for social pleasure. Experts are free today for consultation. Clarify matters that have been puzzling to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make your plans for the new year with associates in a leisurely fashion, and you begin the year in a right spirit of cooperation, wisdom. The evening is then ideal for recreation of your choice. Drive with care.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Analyze what work you have to do as the new year begins and figure out how to launch you; new ideas properly with allies. Talk over with co-workers how to have more harmony in the future. Evening should be spent with family.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those interesting young people who has much poise and can become very successful provided you teach early to deal more fairly with others and to be very courteous instead of being so temperamental silent. There is a fine idea of own ability here, which is excellent, provided you give your youngster encouragement that will help him or her reach the high place in life that is so desired. Send to best schools.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

MONDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The whole day and evening are excellent for you to start the first weekday of the new year by putting in motion your most comprehensive plans. You can attain greater success and have the conditions you most want to be happy. Take the time to entertain those who value your friendship.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Showing particular devotion to close ties increases happiness at home. Try new ideas in your line of endeavor. Show that you are a person of great ability. Relax tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Interest in doing whatever will make your abode more comfortable. This can give the support you need for projects you have in mind. Entertain good friends tonight. Show joviality.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Making sure to keep appointments on time. Handling duties well makes this a most productive day. Also, an ideal day for business transactions. Keep calm, cool and collected.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can get going on those financial deals now that you have started. Fine benefits could result. Follow a hunch and impress bigwigs. Show that you have courage.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can get ahead best today if you entertain persons who can be of real assistance to you in the future. State your aims to close ties. Show that you are a real organizer.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Obtain the information you require to start the new year off properly and have greater success. Show your trusted advisers that there is a real point behind your questions. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to contact those interesting persons you wish to include in your future activities. Come to a fine understanding. Repaying social obligations now is wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find out what your true position is with the public in general as well as with higher ups. Do whatever to improve the association. Finish a civic task. Show that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to get in touch with key persons during your spare time for whatever your good purpose. Making new allies is wise. State your aims intelligently. Be more broad-minded.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure that you pay your obligations on time and properly so that you have no troubles later on. The one you love is very devoted. This can be a most happy evening for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are able to come to a real understanding with allies

According To Boyle

By JOE STILLEY
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Though the American Institute of Interior Designers hasn't yet asked me to join, I nevertheless point with pride to my newly decorated kitchen.

Unfortunately, the finger with which I point is still covered with paint, which turpentine, scouring powder and magic incantations have so far failed to budge.

It's okay, though, because my paint-splotted hands match my hair, my kitchen floor and my best pair of blue jeans.

It all started when I decided that the red countertops had to go, especially since the refrigerator was fronted by a huge green panel—a great combination during the Christmas season but a bit too avant-garde for my taste the rest of the year.

Copper-bottom pans hang in shiny array on the kitchen wall so we decided this should be the keynote of our color scheme. The first move was to cover the countertops with adhesive plastic of solid copper color. The table, also heretofore red, got a cover-up of a print material in tones of copper, brown and black.

These jobs were reluctantly undertaken by my husband. My only contribution to the project was to cluck sympathetically and to make sure there was no child under 17 unaccompanied by an adult around to hear him when the stuff stuck where it shouldn't and didn't stick where it should.

This accomplished, we turned our attention to the refrigerator, decking it out with the solid copper. While its counterpart on the counter stuck to the horizontal surface it was supposed to hide, the disguise on obeying the laws of gravity and before nightfall was drooping like badly peeling sunburn.

We tried again with the lighter-weight print, but it too came loose at the corners. Though we patted it lovingly back into place every time we passed, it became evident some basic incompatibility existed and we accepted the inevitable separation.

Still, the green of the refrigerator was a jarring note in an otherwise tasteful kitchen until we hit on obliterating it with some leftover black paint. The effect on such a big surface did seem a bit somber but it wasn't until our daughter came home from college, took one look and whispered, "Who died?" that we realized this wasn't the answer.

Obviously the only thing to do was to paint it over, this time in copper. However, a lengthy search for copper paint revealed that it apparently comes only in spray cans—a bit messy for an indoor paint job.

Well, the kitchen looks pretty good now and so do I. I have the only shiny copper freckles on the block.

Soviet confidence in a missile-destroying weapon wouldn't necessarily mean a big war, but it could lead to Muscovite recklessness in using its clients to ferment little wars. New open struggle would hurt the prospects of any "cyclical, long-lived improvement."

Nevertheless, Nixon's bold bets are breathtaking, and he has a fifty-fifty chance of winning it all in November. From the spectator's standpoint at least, 1972 is going to be a great year. How much more satisfactory to be a columnist than an exporter, a banker or an engaged diplomat.

SATURDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning can have strange and highly emotional situations connected with it; those who celebrated too much last night will certainly realize it! However, later in the day and evening excellent influences are in effect for making New activity for greater success.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal day to talk over with friends and experts how best to operate so you can realize your more cherished goals. Plan your time carefully, or you could overdo and get sick. Think constructively.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You think you should relax today or tonight, but you could miss out on some important and unusual opportunities. Plan how to operate better in the future so you do not need so much help from others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are thinking very clearly and wisely now and can bring your finest ideas and talents to the attention of others who can be helpful to you. Get enough needed exercise. Dress attractively and go visiting around.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't neglect to invite people who can be helpful to you in the future to your entertainment plans now. You like to have a place of prominence, but don't be pushy to try to get there. Use diplomacy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to be more alert to what others have in mind if you are to advance in whatever sphere of endeavor is most important to you now. Put that artistic talent to work, also. Make this a memorable evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Sit down with associates of all kinds and plan the new year wisely, know just where you are headed and how best to get there. State your aims to close friends. They lend a helping hand.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It is wise to do those things today that will please those who have any power over you. You can easily discuss how to make the new year routines more efficient. Keep cheerful and make this a wonderful day, p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You had better get those duties handled early so you can later have a delightful time with friends and relatives. Plan how you can add to your present holding. Avoid one who drinks too much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Start the new year right by being with those individuals you want in your life in the future. You are able to see more clearly what you desire in the future. Make notes so you do not forget new ideas you get.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are now inspired just how to handle associates better in the future and how to increase your income. You can talk with experts in a social way and get good ideas. Show others you are a generous and kind person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day to get together with associates for dinner and talk over how to have more success in the new year. Much conversation brings excellent results. Plan to work more efficiently in the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Diplomatically show higher-ups you will cooperate with them where some outstanding ideas are concerned. Plan how to become more efficient at your own work. Try not to spend too much money today, tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who will be full of vim and vigor and is quick to grasp at anything that will help him or her advance and gain what is desired. Teach while young to think of the desires and needs of others as well, if there is to be a happy relationship and real success in the lifetime. Any profession that deals with making changes is good since there is much ability at this. Sports are fine.

"The Star impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE
GENERAL TENDENCIES: There is little reason for you not to make full use of this Sunday to decide your overall aims and ambitions, to make the resolutions best suited to your character and situation and to progress wherever possible. Too bad it is not a week day when much action could be going on, but whatever is possible to do on Sunday, do it.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are full of creative ideas now and can get them into full swing by early planning. Take loved one out to a fine dinner, etc., and have a delightful time together. Avoid one who is a bore.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Home is your best place of operation now and you can establish more harmony and comfort in that important realm of your life as well. Entertain outsiders charmingly and get right results. Avoid heavy expenditures.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Out to the places of worship, sermons, etc., early that will give you the inspiration you are seeking. Study your newspaper well for the ideas you need, also. Plan the future more wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Enlarge thinking and expand horizons to include greater things so the future can be far more prosperous and happy for you. Use good practical sense and get right results. Evening excellent for study.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can do much to please your finest friends today and make the new year start working properly for you. Increase their happiness as well as your own. Accept some invitation to a worthwhile social affair.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can start the wheels rolling where personal goals are concerned. Talk over with advisers whatever it is that you are not sure about. The evening is fine for a family get-together. Avoid arguments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can sit down with good friends and allies and state your aims, coordinate yours with theirs. Do those things that will help you gain your personal desires. Overeating is not good now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) No better day than this to handle that civic affair you have been procrastinating about for so long. A bigwig appreciates your fine ability today and gives you a needed boost. Don't retire too late in p.m. Get an early start in the morning.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some happy idea can be put in operation quickly now with real success following. Show your friends you are a delightful companion to have. More affection for mate can bring true understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy and put those obligations behind you as quickly as you can so you later have time for social pleasure. Experts are free today for consultation. Clarify matters that have been puzzling to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make your plans for the new year with associates in a leisurely fashion, and you begin the year in a right spirit of cooperation, wisdom. The evening is then ideal for recreation of your choice. Drive with care.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Analyze what work you have to do as the new year begins and figure out how to launch you; new ideas properly with allies. Talk over with co-workers how to have more harmony in the future. Evening should be spent with family.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those interesting young people who has much poise and can become very successful provided you teach early to deal more fairly with others and to be very courteous instead of being so temperamental. There is a fine idea of own ability here, which is excellent, provided you give your youngster encouragement that will help him or her reach the high place in life that is so desired. Send to best schools.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

MONDAY'S HOROSCOPE
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The whole day and evening are excellent for you to start the first weekday of the new year by putting in motion your most comprehensive plans. You can attain greater success and have the conditions you most want to be happy. Take the time to entertain those who value your friendship.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Showing particular devotion to close ties increases happiness at home. Try new ideas in your line of endeavor. Show that you are a person of great ability. Relax tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Interest in doing whatever will make your abode more comfortable. This can give the support you need for projects you have in mind. Entertain good friends tonight. Show joviality.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Making sure to keep appointments on time. Handling duties well makes this a most productive day. Also, an ideal day for business transactions. Keep calm, cool and collected.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can get going on those financial deals now that you have started. Fine benefits could result. Follow a hunch and impress bigwigs. Show that you have courage.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can get ahead best today if you entertain persons who can be of real assistance to you in the future. State your aims to close ties. Show that you are a real organizer.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Obtain the information you require to start the new year off properly and have greater success. Show your trusted advisers that there is a real point behind your questions. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to contact those interesting persons you wish to include in your future activities. Come to a fine understanding. Repaying social obligations now is wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find out what your true position is with the public in general as well as with higher ups. Do whatever to improve the association. Finish a civic task. Show that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to get in touch with key persons during your spare time for whatever your good purpose. Making new allies is wise. State your aims intelligently. Be more broad-minded.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure that you pay your obligations on time and properly so that you have no troubles later on. The one you love is very devoted. This can be a most happy evening for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are able to come to a real understanding with allies

According To Boyle

By JOE STILLEY
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Though the American Institute of Interior Designers hasn't yet asked me to join, I nevertheless point with pride to my newly decorated kitchen.

Unfortunately, the finger with which I point is still covered with paint, which turpentine, scouring powder and magic incantations have so far failed to budge.

It's okay, though, because my paint-splattered hands match my hair, my kitchen floor and my best pair of blue jeans.

It all started when I decided that the red countertops had to go, especially since the refrigerator was fronted by a huge green panel—a great combination during the Christmas season but a bit too avant-garde for my taste the rest of the year.

Copper-bottom pans hang in shiny array on the kitchen wall so we decided this should be the keynote of our color scheme. The first move was to cover the countertops with adhesive plastic of solid copper color. The table, also heretofore red, got a cover-up of a print material in tones of copper, brown and black.

These jobs were reluctantly undertaken by my husband. My only contribution to the project was to cluck sympathetically and to make sure there was no child under 17 unaccompanied by an adult around to hear him when the stuff stuck where it shouldn't and didn't stick where it should.

This accomplished, we turned our attention to the refrigerator, decking it out with the solid copper. While its counterpart on the counter stuck to the horizontal surface it was supposed to hide, the disguise on the refrigerator insisted on obeying the laws of gravity and before nightfall was drooping like badly peeling sunburn.

We tried again with the lighter-weight print, but it too came loose at the corners. Though we patted it lovingly back into place every time we passed, it became evident some basic incompatibility existed and we accepted the inevitable separation.

Still, the green of the refrigerator was a jarring note in an otherwise tasteful kitchen until we hit on obliterating it with some leftover black paint. The effect on such a big surface did seem a bit somber but it wasn't until our daughter came home from college, took one look and whispered, "Who died?" that we realized this wasn't the answer.

Obviously the only thing to do was to paint it over, this time in copper. However, a lengthy search for copper paint revealed that it apparently comes only in spray cans—a bit messy for an indoor paint job.

Well, the kitchen looks pretty good now and so do I. I have the only shiny copper freckles on the block.

Stretch the holidays. Extend your fun time by reading about the entertainment world. As you begin to fire of parties and tinsel, taper off the merry season with a book about show biz.

"Everyone is talking about war, war, war!" Scarlett complained. "Decades of theatergoers have thrilled to the opening scene of 'Gone With the Wind.' It was the creation of David O. Selznick, who was convinced that a great producer must be an artist. While this picture was the culmination of many talents, Selznick himself saw it through from beginning to end. Author Bob Thomas tells the story of this magnificent production in 'Selznick,' the biography of a Hollywood genius. Yet this is but one section of the book. In its entirety it is a sweeping panorama of the movie industry. Text and studio shots detail the years of Selznick's reign.

Did you ever wonder just how a Broadway hit is put together? In "The Making of a Musical" Richard Altman and Mervin Kaufman tell all. "Fiddler on the Roof," which broke all sorts of records, was created out of madness, creative energy, consummate directorial skill, and musical genius. Fidelity to Sholem Aleichim's original work was difficult to get across to the audience, until Jerome Robbins, came up with the basic question of the production: "What's the show about?" Once this was resolved, there was a solid footing on which to build. This is a fascinating glimpse into the theater before opening night — for turkeys and hits!

Now in its third edition, "The Filmgoer's Companion" is an international encyclopedia. Do you wonder how old Ingrid Berman is? Where Hermione Gingold got her start? Doris Day's real name? (It's Doris Kappelhoff!) Answers to thousands of questions about performers, directors, technicians are presented in an easy-to-use format. In an introduction, Alfred Hitchcock says this book is for the "middlebrow picturegoer who was keenly interested in the craft of cinema without wanting to make a religion of it." It was compiled by Leslie Halliwell.

Mankind has an inherent instinct to mimic. He has done so since the dawn of primitive society. Phyllis Hartnoll traces the "Concise History of Theatre" from the fifth century B.C. to the present day. Her scholarly work is all-encompassing, and it is richly larded with top-notch illustrations. Merely leafing through the pictures is pure delight, and her text is fascinating to anyone who enjoys live productions.

"Something to Sing About" contains words and music to more than seventy favorite folk songs. Collected and arranged by Milton Okun, they are complete with piano arrangements and guitar chords. These are the personal choices of America's folk singers. There are good portrait photographs of the performers, along with short biographical notes.

Miss Vivian Marie May, Thomas J. Mills Are Wed

MRS. THOMAS JOSEPH MILLS

The wedding of Miss Vivian Marie May and Mr. Thomas Joseph Mills took place 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 28th in St. Joseph Catholic Church. The Rev. William Metzger of Columbus, formerly of St. Joseph's, officiated the candlelight ceremony before the altar adorned with red and white poinsettias banked against Christmas greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. May Jr., of 525 Edgewood Drive, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Mills, of Newark.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was in a formal length white velvet gown with Juliet sleeves, high neckline and slender skirt. The gown was enhanced with Venice lace at the neckline, cuffs and around the raised waistline. The matching, face-framing mantilla was edged in Venice lace. Her flowers were a colonial bouquet of deep red roses, statice and white pompon mums with cascades of green velvet ribbon and white tulle.

Miss Beth Moore of Columbus, was bridesmaid. She was attired in a gown with a wine velvet bodice, long bishop sleeves and a white chiffon skirt over white taffeta. The bodice featured lace trim at the neckline, cuffs and waistline. Her headress was of wine velvet and nylon tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of white pompon mums and red roses with deep green velvet cascades of ribbon.

Mr. Richard Porter of Newark, performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Allen Martig, brother-in-law of the bride; Mr. Rod Turner, of Akron and Mr. Dan Worley, of Columbus.

Mrs. May was attired for her daughter's wedding in a pink worsted silk sheath dress with a deep pink lace yoke. Her accessories matched her gown.

Mrs. Mills wore an apple green silk crepe dress with a circular skirt tipped with a wide band of matching material. Her accessories were silver, matching the trim of her gown. Both mothers wore corsages of red roses.

A reception at the bride's home immediately followed the ceremony. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated in pink and white with appointments in wine, pink and white.

The bride graduated from Circleville High School, attended Kent State University and graduated from Bauder Institute of Fashion. She is presently employed by B. Goodman Fashions of Columbus.

The bridegroom graduated from Newark High School and Franklin University in Columbus, with a BA degree in business administration. He is currently associated with State Auto Insurance Company of Columbus.

For a wedding trip to Atwood Lodge, the bride changed to a lavender three piece suit dress and a purple coat. Her corsage was a pink cymbidium orchid. Following the honeymoon the couple will reside at 4343 Luxury Lane, Apt. B-6, in Columbus.

Woman Alone In Early Engineer Class

By BO BINGLE
Associated Press Writer
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — In 1910 Maria Whitson decided she'd rather lead women than follow men. Now she leads both, but it wasn't until 60 years later that her ambitions were fulfilled, when she ran for office this year, and outpolled 29 other candidates for the city council.

In the meantime, Miss Whitson wasn't idle. She was the first woman to get an engineering degree from Auburn; she directed a technical school program and gave up a teaching career to help the war effort.

Today, at 70, she's still forging forward and makes a habit of not looking back. "I never wanted to relive anything, even the more enjoyable times. I never felt I could do any better. If I really intended to do better, I can start now," she said.

But, with a little encouragement, she'll talk about those days in 1921 when she went to school with all those men at Auburn. After getting a degree in math and physical science at Randolph - Macon Women's College in Lynchburg, Va., Miss Whitson said she realized she wanted a job. A favorite professor recommended the new field of electrical engineering and Auburn accepted her application.

"Since I had most of the basic courses out of the way, I was able to get a degree in two years," she said.

And the reaction from her male colleagues — "Remarkably well, considering they did not want girls at Auburn. The only time my feelings were really hurt was when I discovered they were finding out which sections I would be in so they could sign up for the others."

"It seems they were afraid a certain colorful professor wouldn't unload his collection of stories if I were in his class."

After receiving her degree from Auburn, Miss Whitson worked for an engineering company, but it folded during the depression, so she found a job teaching elementary school history. When the schools wanted to offer technical education, she took over since there were no qualified men in the school system in Talladega.

But when World War II came — "I got tired of saying goodbye to all those boys, so I joined the WAVES. They made me a lieutenant senior grade in charge of a hotel where WAVES were kept." From there she was transferred to a secret installation involved in bacteriological warfare.

After the war, Miss Whitson taught again until she retired in 1964, but being idle didn't appeal to her. When the government changed in this northeast Alabama town from a city commission type to a mayor and council type, she was off and running. She outpolled the other 29 candidates, and the council elected her president. Everyone from teenagers to senior citizens worked in her campaign.

Now her problem is — "I've

Judo Champion Mild Mannered

By JAMES F. DONOHUE
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Meeting the U.S. women's judo champion is like meeting a cobra. You think, one false move and — WHAM — A judo chop to the neck.

"I'm not like that at all," said Jean Fielding, 23, of Somerville. "I'm a very peaceful and loving person and that's how I like to be presented."

By day, Miss Fielding is indeed mild mannered, and soft-spoken.

It is in the evenings and on weekends that, like a comic strip character, she changes into a costume and becomes Superwoman — a graceful athlete who is women's grand champion of the U. S. Judo Association.

"Judo is a sport, not a form of fighting or something a woman should learn for self-defense," Miss Fielding said. "If she learns it for self-defense, she may use it at an inappropriate time. For instance, she may use it on a friend who is just being fresh. And he won't be her friend any more."

"Judo gives you self-confidence. But most of all, I think it makes you conscious of how dangerous people can be, especially men. That consciousness keeps you out of dangerous situations."

"After all, men are bigger and stronger and they can throw you around very easily. When you work out with men as I do you realize that a woman has no defense against them, except evasion."

Miss Fielding's training is spartan. She practices at the Northeast Judo Club in Somerville a least 15 hours a week and keeps in shape with exercise, wind sprints and a lung-cracking two-mile run three times a week.

Women judo athletes compete much like gymnasts. They work in pairs, performing a stylized set of 30 throws and are judged on beauty of movement, correctness of execution, grace and poise.

"I live for judo," Miss Fielding said, and such total dedication leaves little time for a social life. "A man doesn't understand when he calls for a date and I tell him I have to go practice judo instead," she said. "The solution is to date judo players."

Bank Statement Contains Check

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Randy Witt was shocked Wednesday when he received his monthly statement from the First Security Bank of Idaho. The statement contained an unprocessed check made out to the bank from the State of Idaho for $92,771.48.

The 27-year-old mechanical designer said he immediately called the bank to inform them of the mistake and then braved a Boise snowstorm to deliver the "lost" check to a branch office.

Witt said a bank officer "took the check, said thanks and turned his back. I thought I might get a fifth of whisky or something."

A muskrat's living quarters usually are above the high water mark along banks of rivers and lakes.

Police in Pittsburgh, Pa., will receive a $400 pay increase per man in 1972. The city has 1,600 policemen.

Miss Vivian Marie May, Thomas J. Mills Are Wed

MRS. THOMAS JOSEPH MILLS

The wedding of Miss Vivian Marie May and Mr. Thomas Joseph Mills took place 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 28th in St. Joseph Catholic Church. The Rev. William Metzger of Columbus, formerly of St. Joseph's, officiated the candlelit ceremony before the altar adorned with red and white poinsettias banked against Christmas greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. May Jr., of 325 Edgewood Drive, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Mills, of Newark.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was in a formal length white velvet gown with Juliet sleeves, high neckline and slender skirt. The gown was enhanced with Venice lace at the neckline, cuffs and around the raised waistline. The matching, face-framing mantilla was edged in Venice lace. Her flowers were a colonial bouquet of deep red roses, statice and white pompon mums with cascades of green velvet ribbon and white tulle.

Miss Beth Moore of Columbus, was bridesmaid. She was attired in a gown with a wine velvet bodice, long bishop sleeves and a white chiffon skirt over white taffeta. The bodice featured lace trim at the neckline, cuffs and waistline. Her headpiece was of wine velvet and nylon tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of white pompon mums and red roses with deep green velvet cascades of ribbon.

Mr. Richard Porter of Newark, performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Allen Martig, brother-in-law of the bride; Mr. Rod Turner, of Akron and Mr. Dan Worley, of Columbus.

Women Made News In 1971 In Sports, Politics, Court Decisions

Among the well-known women who died this year were: Gabrielle (Coco) Chanel, French fashion designer whose name had been in the news for decades, on Jan. 10; Bebe Daniels, who was active in vaudeville with her husband Ben Lyon, on March 16; Col. Florence Blanchfield, the first woman to receive a commission in the regular Army, who directed some 60,000 nurses as head of the U.S. Army Nurse Corps during World War II, on May 12; Glenda Farrell, who appeared in 122 films along with many stage plays and T.V. shows as the gum-chewing blonde who wisecracked her way through life, on May 1; Margaret Bourke-White, whose camera took her through a life of high adventure, including being torpedoed off North Africa during World War II, on Aug. 27; pianist Lil Hardin, Louis Armstrong's second wife, who had attended his funeral with his widow in July on Aug. 28 at an outdoor memorial concert for Louis; Spring Byington, who was noted as a character actress, on Sept. 15; Muriel Kirkland, another actress who achieved stardom in "Strictly Dishonorable," on Sept. 26.

1971 was the year of the liberated woman — or was it? It was the year Swiss women won the right to vote, but it was also the year a proposal to enfranchise women in the tiny country of Lichtenstein was defeated. It was a year during which women made inroads into many fields, such as politics, the armed forces and sports and there was a myriad of stories about women in professions usually thought of as closed to their sex — such as truck driving, construction and radio and television repair.

1971 was the first year a woman was even considered for the Supreme Court, though not appointed, and the year the Supreme Court struck down an Idaho law that gave men preference over women in administering deceased persons' estates. It was the first time since the 14th Amendment went into effect in 1868 that the Supreme Court said women had been denied equal rights.

In another case the Supreme Court ruled employers cannot refuse to hire women with small children while taking on men in the same situation. The case was brought to court by Mrs. Ida Phillips, a Florida waitress who sued under the 1964 Civil Rights law after she had been turned down for a job as an assembly trainee. In an unsigned opinion the court said an employer cannot have one hiring policy for women with pre-school-age children and another for men. The decision reversed a ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans which held that employers could have two hiring policies, one for women and another for men, for prospective workers with young children.

A male bastion in Washington, D. C. fell in 1971 when the National Press Club agreed to accept women as members. Not to be outdone, the Women's National Press Club agreed to accept women as members. Not to be outdone, the Women's National Press Club voted 104 to 0 to admit men.

The last of the Ivy League colleges to hold out against co-education gave in this year, too. Trustees of 202 year old Dartmouth College adopted coeducation after more than two years of study and discussions by trustees, faculty, alumni and students and nearly four years of student campaigning. President John G. Kemeny said women will be admitted as bachelor's degree candidates in September, 1972, as members of the class of 1976.

On July 16 Jeanne M. Holm became the first woman to be promoted to brigadier general in the Air Force. Of her appointment, Gen. Holm said, "I never expected this in my wildest dreams. The publicity associated with the promotion of a woman to this rank will help people realize there are women in the armed forces. And it will prove to women that they may now aspire to the higher ranks."

Women all over the country held an anniversary party Aug. 26 celebrating the 51st year of their franchise. Mayor John Lindsay of New York City proclaimed "Women's Rights Day" and named the first woman police captain in the city's history. A march up Fifth Avenue drew about 6,000 women, and at a rally following the march Betty Friedan, writer and a leader of the National Organization of Women, predicted that the women's movement would some day be a "bi-sexual movement."

The gallery of the American Stock Exchange felt the brunt of women's wrath that day when eight feminists invaded the premises, shouting, "Desexagrate Wall Street," and "We can't bear any more bull." Guards led the women off, but after they were gone a round of applause and cheers rose from the men below.

Three women who are heads of state piloted their countries through uneasy times this year.

In India, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was reelected to her third term of office in spite of a four-party opposition alliance. Mrs. Gandhi had called the elections a year ahead of schedule to seek a fresh mandate for her Socialist policies, and obviously achieved her goal. She based her party's campaign on an appeal to all sections of the Indian electorate, arguing that she alone could assure stability and communal harmony for the nation. But 1971 was to prove a trying year for her. Civil war in Pakistan brought over nine million refugees to India and brought those two countries in to war.

SHIRLEY CHISHOLM

Israel's premier Golda Meir received an honor from her country in 1971, though the wording might be objectionable to feminists. Mrs. Meir was chosen Israel's "Man of the Year." The 73-year-old grandmother, in the 50th year of her arrival in Palestine, continued to face problems — within Israel's border and out.

BERNADETTE DEVLIN

Ceylon's Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike clamped a curfew and emergency measures on her country in April when insurrectionists launched an attack against 74 police stations. They held control of several rural village areas before being put down by the armed services and police. In October, sources told Associated Press correspondents that the same problems still posed a threat to Mrs. Bandaranaike's socialist government.

Several women made big political news in the United States this year, and Congresswoman Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., voiced the thoughts of many women when she predicted it would soon be impossible to elect any man president who does not take a firm stand on women's rights.

But this year a woman was thinking about running for the presidency. Rep. Shirley Chisholm D-N.Y., the only black woman in Congress, said if she ran it would be "not only from the standpoint of a black person but from the standpoint of a woman." In October Mrs. Chisholm said she expected to raise $300,000 by the end of the year, and if that happened, she said, she would formally announce for president on New Year's Day.

"It's not only the question of the presidency but a whole new thrust in government," she said. Mrs. Chisholm added it was necessary to realize "there are other peoples in America besides white males who have talents and capacities and if we can get them into high positions we can straighten out the mess in America."

Bella Abzug, forceful Democratic congresswoman from New York, stayed in the news also. One of her actions was to introduce an effort to dismantle the entire U.S. draft system to cut off manpower for the conflict in Indochina.

Her proposal was defeated in March, but Mrs. Abzug was still in the public eye. Along with other well-known women, like Mrs. Chisholm and Gloria Steinem, writer and member of the Democratic National Policy Council, she was part of an organizing conference in July for the National Women's Political Caucus, a group which will work to have more women elected to political office. Other goals of the group are passage of the equal rights amendment, and reform of policies of political parties which have excluded women, specifically demanding that women comprise 50 per cent of the delegates to both parties' 1972 conventions.

One person who proved that women can be elected to office was Patience Sewell Latting, the mayor of Oklahoma City, Okla., and the only female mayor of a city in the United States with a population of more than 200,000. Becoming mayor this year was Mrs. Latting's second "first" in her political career. She had become the first Oklahoma City councilwoman in 1967.

Women worked outside existing political systems this year too, and several made headlines by trying to change the establishment. One, actress Jane Fonda, along with other actors and entertainers, presented an antiwar show at military bases across the country. Miss Fonda said the show wanted to display a "different view of the war" than that offered by USO shows featuring comedian Bob Hope.

Angela Davis, black militant who was arrested last year in connection with the shooting of four persons in a San Rafael, Calif. courtroom, remained in jail in California but her trial was ordered moved from Marin County to San Jose after 10 months of tightly guarded pretrial hearings. Judge Richard E. Aranson ordered the change stating, "The court finds a reasonable likelihood Miss Davis cannot obtain a fair trial in Marin County."

The widow of the Scottish discoverer of penicillin made headlines this year when she was arrested in Greece. Lady Maria Fleming, a resident of Athens, was charged in September with plotting the escape of the man who tried to assassinate Premier George Papadopoulos, and was sentenced to a 16-month prison term. After being held in a Greek prison for less than a month, however, she was deported to England.

In Ireland, Bernadette Devlin announced she was going to have a baby. The unmarried Member of Parliament, who is champion of the Roman Catholic minority in Northern Ireland, declined to name the father and said she would stay in politics. After the birth of her daughter in August, Miss Devlin said, "I'm just like any other mother in the world —

I think my baby's beautiful."

One woman author who made news this year was Germaine Greer, whose book, "The Female Eunuch," rapidly became a best-seller after its publication here. Miss Greer, a native of Australia, wrote that women are not only in bondage to men, but they are also deformed by them.

News was made in June by Patricia Nixon's wedding to Edward Finch Cox. Tricia was the eighth daughter of a president to be married in the White House, but she was the first to have an outdoor wedding.

A young woman who made news on another continent was Princess Anne of England, who celebrated her 21st birthday on August 15. Her coming of age party took place aboard the royal yacht and left society buzzing because Princess Margaret and her husband were not there. In September it was rumored that Princess Anne would be given a new title, Princess Royal, traditionally reserved for the oldest or only daughter of the sovereign, but a palace spokesman said the Queen had no intention of granting her the title in the foreseeable future.

Finally, in the sports world, 1971 was a record-breaking year, with Mrs. Billye Jean King becoming the first woman tennis player ever to win over $100,000 in one year.

Women Made News In 1971 In Sports, Politics, Court Decisions

Among the well-known women who died this year were: Gabrielle (Coco) Chanel, French fashion designer whose name had been in the news for decades, on Jan. 10; Bebe Daniels, who was active in vaudeville with her husband Ben Lyon, on March 16; Col. Florence Blanchfield, the first woman to receive a commission in the regular Army, who directed some 60,000 nurses as head of the U.S. Army Nurse Corps during World War II, on May 12; Glenda Farrell, who appeared in 122 films along with many stage plays and T.V. shows as the gum-chewing blonde who wisecracked her way through life, on May 1; Margaret Bourke-White, whose camera took her through a life of high adventure, including being torpedoed off North Africa during World War II, on Aug. 27; pianist Lil Hardin, Louis Armstrong's second wife, who had attended his funeral with his widow in July on Aug. 28 at an outdoor memorial concert for Louis; Spring Byington, who was noted as a character actress, on Sept. 15; Muriel Kirkland, another actress who achieved stardom in "Strictly Dishonorable," on Sept. 26.

1971 was the year of the liberated woman — or was it? It was the year Swiss women won the right to vote, but it was also the year a proposal to enfranchise women in the tiny country of Lichtenstein was defeated. It was a year during which women made inroads into many fields, such as politics, the armed forces and sports, and there was a myriad of stories about women in professions usually thought of as closed to their sex — such as truck driving, construction and radio and television repair.

1971 was the first year a woman was even considered for the Supreme Court, though not appointed, and the year the Supreme Court struck down an Idaho law that gave men preference over women in administering deceased persons' estates. It was the first time since the 14th Amendment went into effect in 1868 that the Supreme Court said women had been denied equal rights.

In another case the Supreme Court ruled employers cannot refuse to hire women with small children while taking on men in the same situation. The case was brought to court by Mrs. Ida Phillips, a Florida waitress who sued under the 1964 Civil Rights law after she had been turned down for a job as an assembly trainee. In an unsigned opinion the court said an employer cannot have one hiring policy for women with pre-school-age children and another for men. The decision reversed a ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans which held that employers could have two hiring policies, one for women and another for men, for prospective workers with young children.

A male bastion in Washington, D. C. fell in 1971 when the National Press Club agreed to accept women as members. Not to be outdone, the Women's National Press Club agreed to accept women as members. Not to be outdone, the Women's National Press Club voted 104 to 0 to admit men.

The last of the Ivy League colleges to hold out against co-education gave in this year, too. Trustees of 202 year old Dartmouth College adopted coeducation after more than two years of study and discussions by trustees, faculty, alumni and students and nearly four years of student campaigning. President John G. Kemeny said women will be admitted as bachelor's degree candidates in September, 1972, as members of the class of 1976.

On July 16 Jeanne M. Holm became the first woman to be promoted to brigadier general in the Air Force. Of her appointment, Gen. Holm said, "I never expected this in my wildest dreams. The publicity associated with the promotion of a woman to this rank will help people realize there are women in the armed forces. And it will prove to women that they may now aspire to the higher ranks."

Women all over the country held an anniversary party Aug. 26 celebrating the 51st year of their franchise. Mayor John Lindsay of New York City proclaimed "Women's Rights Day" and named the first woman police captain in the city's history. A march on Fifth Avenue drew about 6,000 women, and at a rally following the march Betty Friedan, writer and a leader of the National Organization of Women, predicted that the women's movement would some day be a "bi-sexual movement."

The gallery of the American Stock Exchange felt the brunt of women's wrath that day when eight feminists invaded the premises, shouting, "Desexagrate Wall Street," and "We can't bear any more bull." Guards led the women off, but after they were gone a round of applause and cheers rose from the men below.

In Chicago, about 500 women gathered in Civic Center Plaza to hear speakers urge local, state and national laws to give women equality.

Three women who are heads of state piloted their countries through uneasy times this year.

In India, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was reelected to her third term of office in spite of a four-party opposition alliance. Scandinavians once offered cake to Thor, the God of thunder, so he would grant an abundant harvest.

Family's Stay In Tent Home Ended; Job Offers Pour In

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The tent which Eugene Nichols, his wife and six children called home for four months has been replaced by a 10-room, two-story, rent-free house.

And the prospect of landing a job, dismal a day ago, is suddenly bright.

The family moved here from Lake Hopatcong, N.J., in August after losing "all our money on a house there," Nichols said. When the 45-year-old former truck driver couldn't find work, they set up a 103 by 14-foot tent and paid $90 a month to rent a campsite which provided electricity, water and restrooms.

Dozens of persons who read a newspaper account of the family's predicament Wednesday contacted Nichols to offer food and clothing, to tell him of job openings and to make trucks available so he could take the test for a California Class One driver's license that would enable him to qualify for driving jobs like the one he had in New Jersey.

And then there was Thomas Gibson.

"When I read about Nichols in the San Diego Union, I decided that only canvas over your head is just no way to live," Gibson said. "Our house is just sitting there, doing no one any good. So my wife and I thought it was better to have someone in it for a while than not."

Gibson, who moved to a new house last month, turned over the 80-year-old structure in nearby National City rent-free until Nichols finds a job and gets his feet on the ground.

FCC Commissioner Rex Lee Taken Ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Communications Commissioner H. Rex Lee suffered a heart attack Christmas Day and is hospitalized, the FCC reports.

An FCC spokesman said Wednesday that Lee, 61, is "doing well."

Family's Stay In Tent Home Ended; Job Offers Pour In

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The tent which Eugene Nichols, his wife and six children called home for four months has been replaced by a 10-room, two-story, rent-free house.

And the prospect of landing a job, dismal a day ago, is suddenly bright.

The family moved here from Lake Hopatcong, N.J., in August after losing "all our money on a house there," Nichols said. When the 45-year-old former truck driver couldn't find work, they set up a 103 by 14-foot tent and paid $90 a month to rent a campsite which provided electricity, water and restrooms.

Dozens of persons who read a newspaper account of the family's predicament Wednesday contacted Nichols to offer food and clothing, to tell him of job openings and to make trucks available so he could take the test for a California Class One driver's license that would enable him to qualify for driving jobs like the one he had in New Jersey.

And then there was Thomas Gibson.

"When I read about Nichols in the San Diego Union, I decided that only canvas over your head is just no way to live," Gibson said. "Our house is just sitting there, doing no one any good. So my wife and I thought it was better to have someone in it for a while than not."

Gibson, who moved to a new house last month, turned over the 80-year-old structure in nearby National City rent-free until Nichols finds a job and gets his feet on the ground.

NEW YEAR GREETINGS

To everyone, everywhere we send hopes for love, peace. To you, our gratitude.

CHRISTOPHER DON BOUTIQUE

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Pictures so outstanding that they scream for attention mark "The King's Fountain" for instant appeal. Blues, oranges, golds shimmer on every page. Ezra Jack Keats, who won the Caldecott medal and other awards for illustrating children's books, has departed from his usual style. He used acrylics on canvas to give the feeling and flavor of the Old Testament parables. Lloyd Alexander's story has a satisfying moral, as befits the exceptional art work.

Celebrity comes quickly to Norman, the talking dog. He enjoys fame and the applause that can go to any dog's head. But every talking dog has his day and eventually Norman is supplanted in the hearts of the public by a harp-playing mouse. "Norman" is by Mitchell Rose and is illustrated in comicbook style.

Who has not watched an ant drag a crumb over a seemingly impossible obstacle? Kazuo Mizumura, in story and pictures, paints out the determination of this small insect in "The Way of an Ant." Her book is beautiful, in every sense of the word.

Every boy wants a dog. Peter wanted a dog named "Lassie". His fish, his turtle, his bird, his kitten were all named "Lassie." When he finally got his dog, what do you think he named him? Walter! This warm book for very small children was written by Liesel Moak Skorpen and illustrated by Bruce Martin Scott.

Unusual in both its art work and its story, "All Upon a Stone" will be remembered by all who see it. Designed to show the unity of a small object of nature, it depicts detailed scenes of plan and animal life. Each of these tiny views is illustrated in proper perspective in one single painting on the last page. Jean George, renowned for her nature writing for children, is responsible for the story. Don Bolognese did

Amelia Bedelia is back. This time she is fired for serving coffee with cereal in the same cup! She wanders through a series of misadventures, all hilariously funny to the beginning reader. Peggy Parish has found a rib-tickling formula in the "I Can Read" series. Her latest is called "Come Back, Amelia Bedelia".

There may be other children's books about piano tuners, but certainly not among those which are well-known. M. B. Goffstein has chosen this occupation as his background for the engaging story of a little girl's ambition. He manages to divulge a great deal of information about tuning, a rather obscure craft today. "Two Piano Tuners" has a child-like charm and simplicity of theme. It will be especially enjoyed by budding musicians.

Inspiration for "Mr. Biddle and the Birds" was a drawing in the 18th century satire called "A Voyage to Cocklogallinia. Lanzo Anderson wrote a fantastic and unbelievable (even to children) about Mr. Biddle and his little boat. Snugly fitting bird corsets enabled his feathered friends to carry him through the air. There is even a bit of a moral in this comic tale. Adrienne Adams illustrated the book with wit; expressions on the birds' faces are laughable.

Buying one clock to check the accuracy of another may seem expensive and unnecessary to adults. But in "Clocks and More Clocks" Pat Hutchins uses this gambit to tell a funny tale. It will cause even the youngest child to laugh. Miss Hutchins' drole pictures are designed to help develop a sense of humor in the preschooler.

Folklore groups from France, Portugal, Ghana, Roumania, Mexico, Korea, Japan and Poland will entertain visitors at the Olympic games in Munich next summer.

NEW YEAR GREETINGS TO ALL

NEW YEAR GREETINGS

To everyone, everywhere we send hopes for love, peace. To you, our gratitude.

CHRISTOPHER DON BOUTIQUE

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Pictures so outstanding that they scream for attention mark "The King's Fountain" for instant appeal. Blues, oranges, golds shimmer on every page. Ezra Jack Keats, who won the Caldecott medal and other awards for illustrating children's books, has departed from his usual style. He used acrylics on canvas to give the feeling and flavor of the Old Testament parables. Lloyd Alexander's story has a satisfying moral, as befits the exceptional art work.

Celebrity comes quickly to Norman, the talking dog. He enjoys fame and the applause that can go to any dog's head. But every talking dog has his day and eventually Norman is supplanted in the hearts of the public by a harp-playing mouse, "Norman" is by Mitchell Rose and is illustrated in comicbook style.

Who has not watched an ant drag a crumb over a seemingly impossible obstacle? Kazuo Mizumera, in story and pictures, paints out the determination of this small insect in "The Way of an Ant." Her book is beautiful, in every sense of the word.

Every boy wants a dog. Peter wanted a dog named "Lassie". His fish, his turtle, his bird, his kitten were all named "Lassie." When he finally got his dog, what do you think he named him? Walter! This warm book for very small children was written by Liesel Moak Skorpen and illustrated by Bruce Martin Scott.

Unusual in both its art work and its story, "All Upon a Stone" will be remembered by all who see it. Designed to show the unity of a small object of nature, it depicts detailed scenes of plan and animal life. Each of these tiny views is illustrated in proper perspective in one single painting on the last page. Jean George, renowned for her nature writing for children, is responsible for the story. Don Bolognese did

Amelia Bedelia is back. This time she is fired for serving coffee with cereal in the same cup! She wanders through a series of misadventures, all hilariously funny to the beginning reader. Peggy Parish has found a rib-tickling formula in the "I Can Read" series. Her latest is called "Come Back, Amelia Bedelia".

There may be other children's books about piano tuners, but certainly not among those which are well-known. M. B. Goffstein has chosen this occupation as his background for the engaging story of a little girl's ambition. He manages to divulge a great deal of information about tuning, a rather obscure craft today. "Two Piano Tuners" has a child-like charm and simplicity of theme. It will be especially enjoyed by budding musicians.

Inspiration for "Mr. Biddle and the Birds" was a drawing in the 18th century satire called "A Voyage to Cocklogallinia." Lonzo Anderson wrote a fantastic and unbelievable (even to children) about Mr. Biddle and his little boat. Saugly fitting bird corsets enabled his feathered friends to carry him through the air. There is even a bit of a moral in this comic tale. Adrienne Adams illustrated the book with wit; expressions on the birds' faces are laughable.

Buying one clock to check the accuracy of another may seem expensive and unnecessary to adults. But in "Clocks and More Clocks" Pat Hutchins uses this gambit to tell a funny tale. It will cause even the youngest child to laugh. Miss Hutchins' drole pictures are designed to help develop a sense of humor in the preschooler.

Folklore groups from France, Portugal, Ghana, Roumania, Mexico, Korea, Japan and Poland will entertain visitors at the Olympic games in Munich next summer.

Jesus Becomes Hero To Youth During 1971

AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jesus in 1971 became the latest hero on the American youth scene.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We
welcome letters to the editor.
In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

Now that we have been exposed to Christmas once again
and have left of this year just a few days until its close, many of us will begin taking stock,
a mental inventory of our gains
and losses for 1971.

Unsolved problems of previous years will be found to have compounded. Even though we have restored to many panaceas and cure-alls, we have few answers to any of them.

Personal problems and those of family and nation remain to plague us, as do those of the international community of
which this nation is a part.

If we admit to the truth of the forgoing, and I'm sure we must, then it is bound to occur
to all that within the pages of that one book from which is taken the story of Christmas, lies the answers.

The hope of "peace on earth and good will toward man" can last no longer than some of those baubles we exchanged
with one another at Christmas.
But since the future of man depends on his dedication to that hope and in making it a reality, a determination to keep it alive can make for all of us a rewarding New Year's Resolution.

Sincerely Yours,
FRED BOWSER

Shopping Trip Ends In Police Charges

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — A
Cleveland, Ohio, couple's shopping trip here has led to their convictions on 15 joint and separate charges involving counterfeit money, theft and possession of stolen goods.

John Watkins, 36, pleaded guilty Wednesday to three counts of using counterfeit
money, one count of uttering,
two of possession of stolen
property over $50 and one of theft over $50.

Beaudine Carson, 28, pleaded guilty to two counts of using counterfeit money, one of uttering, four counts of the over $50 and one of possession of a restricted weapon.

London has 1,000 ambulances
and they answer 1,400
emergency calls daily.

top development in the religious field, which has grown increasingly fluid and variable,
more of a protean movement
than one with clear-cut institutional structures.

This aspect showed up in many ways, including the surge
of interest in Jesus and in other religious resources among young people, who widely shunned traditional church organizations.

It "has been a year of search
for instant salvation," says the
Rev. Dr. Eugene Smith, U.S.
executive for the World Council
of Churches, who adds that America is bulging with religion in quantity, but it is of uncertain quality.

"In a complex world, many
are seeking simple answers," he said in a year-end review. Of the youth groundswell, he said
that "like all mass movements, this one combines the elements
both of hope and heresy."

The nation's youth culture,
which has varied from quietism
to tumultuous protest to psychedelic escapism to cultish
conformity in dress and speech, displayed its new religious bent
in sundry ways.

Most visible and audible was the Jesus movement, cropping up throughout the country, in communes and Bible-study
meetings. The underground
Jesus press grew to about 50 papers, produced for and by youths.

"Excesses and defects" exist in the movement, including bandwagon faddism, says its roving historian, Edward Plow-
man. But he concludes in a book, "The Jesus Movement," that it has the vitality to
"change the world."

Along with it, and sometimes including backing from regular church youth groups, Jesus festivals in many communities

drew thousands of young people, sometimes tens of thousands.

Broadway blossomed with hits about Jesus—"Godspell"
and "Jesus Christ-Superstar."
Night clubs took up the theme,
and the word, "Jesus," decorated dirty T-shirts.

Colleges and universities continued to expand their offerings
of religious courses, a trend going on for a decade, and de-
to rise.

Aside from these intellectual pursuits, there was a growing fascination with the occult, with parapsychology, astrology and charms, as well as with eastern meditative disciplines and Oriental religions.

Youth followers of Ramakrishna, in saffron wrappers,
went through city streets, changing their prayers.

Other major religion stories of 1971:

—Studies commissioned by U.S. Catholic bishops at a cost of $500,000 showed most priests
favor optional celibacy—but the bishops and a worldwide Synod
in Rome insisted that the celibacy requirement must be maintained.

—Religious forces—Catholic,
Protestant and Jewish—joined in opposition to help defeat a congressional proposal to amend the U.S. Constitution to allow public schools to sponsor
"nondenominational" devo-tations.

—Homosexuals came out in the open in their demand for full acceptance in the churches.
In New York, San Francisco and elsewhere, they organized their own congregations.

—The U.S. Supreme Court

Rhode Island and Pennsylvania
for subsidizing salaries of parochial school teachers, blocking similar plans in 15 other states
and increasing financial pressures on a shrinking system of church schools.

American Baptists elected
women to their top offices, and
the Lutheran Church in America and American Lutheran Church ordained their first women ministers.

—The Presbyterian Church
U.S. (Southern) squeaked
through a touchy convention without a threatened split, but some disgruntled forces in the Church still were planning on it.

—Another Roman Catholic
bishop, Bernard M. Kelly of Providence, R.I., resigned from

AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jesus in 1971 became the latest hero on the American youth scene.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We
welcome letters to the editor.
In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of

pressed in this column are those

sarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

Now that we have been exposed to Christmas once again
and have left of this year just
a few days until its close, many
of us will begin taking stock,
a mental inventory of our gains
and losses for 1971.

Unsolved problems of previous years will be found to have compounded. Even though
we have restored to many panaceas and cure-alls, we have
few answers to any of them.

Personal problems and those
of family and nation remain to plague us, as do those of the
international community of
which this nation is a part.

If we admit to the truth of the foregoing, and I'm sure we must, then it is bound to occur
to all that within the pages of
that one book from which is taken the story of Christmas,
lies the answers.

The hope of "peace on earth
and good will toward man" can
last no longer than some of those baubles we exchanged
with one another at Christmas.

But since the future of man
depends on his dedication to
that hope and in making it a reality, a determination to keep it alive can make for all of
Resolution.

Sincerely Yours,
FRED BOWSER

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — A
Cleveland, Ohio, couple's shopping trip here has led to their convictions on 15 joint and separate charges involving counterfeit money, theft and possession of stolen goods.

John Watkins, 36, pleaded guilty Wednesday to three counts of using counterfeit
money, one count of uttering,
two of possession of stolen
property over $50 and one of
theft over $50.

Beaudine Carson, 28, pleaded guilty to two counts of using
tering, four counts of the over $50 and one of possession of a restricted weapon.

London has 1,000 ambulances
and they answer 1,400
emergency calls daily.

top development in the religious field, which has grown increasingly fluid and variable,
more of a protean movement
than one with clear-cut institutional structures.

This aspect showed up in
many ways, including the surge
of interest in Jesus and in other
religious resources among
young people, who widely
shunned traditional church organizations.

It "has been a year of search
for instant salvation," says the
Rev. Dr. Eugene Smith, U.S.
executive for the World Council
of Churches, who adds that America is bulging with religion in quantity, but it is of uncertain quality.

"In a complex world, many
are seeking simple answers,"
he said in a year-end review. Of the youth groundswell, he said
that "like all mass movements,
this one combines the elements
both of hope and heresy."

The nation's youth culture,
which has varied from quietism
to tumultuous protest to psy-
chedelic escapism to cultish
conformity in dress and speech,
displayed its new religious bent
in sundry ways.

Most visible and audible was
the Jesus movement, cropping
up throughout the country, in communes and Bible-study
meetings. The underground
Jesus press grew to about 50
papers, produced for and by youths.

"Excesses and defects" exist
in the movement, including
band-wagon faddism, says its roving historian, Edward Plow-
man. But he concludes in a book, "The Jesus Movement," that it has the vitality to
"change the world."

Along with it, and sometimes including backing from regular

church youth groups, Jesus festivals in many communities
drew thousands of young people, sometimes tens of thousands.

Broadway blossomed with
hits about Jesus—"Godspell"
and "Jesus Christ-Superstar."
Night clubs took up the theme,
and the word, "Jesus," decorated dirty T-shirts.

Colleges and universities continued to expand their offerings
of religious courses, a trend go-
to rise.

Aside from these intellectual
fascination with the occult, with
parapsychology, astrology and
charms, as well as with eastern meditative disciplines and Oriental religions.

Youth followers of Ramak-
rishna, in saffron wrappers,
went through city streets, chanting their prayers.

Other major religion stories
of 1971:

—Studies commissioned by U.S. Catholic bishops at a cost
of $500,000 showed most priests
favor optional celibacy—but the
bishops and a worldwide Synod
in Rome insisted that the celibacy requirement must be maintained.

—Religious forces—Catholic,
Protestant and Jewish—joined in opposition to help defeat a congressional proposal to amend the U.S. Constitution to allow public schools to sponsor
"nondenominational" devotations.

—Homosexuals came out in the open in their demand for
full acceptance in the churches.
In New York, San Francisco
and elsewhere, they organized
their own congregations.

—The U.S. Supreme Court

Rhode Island and Pennsylvania
for subsidizing salaries of parochial school teachers, blocking similar plans in 15 other states
and increasing financial pressures on a shrinking system of church schools.

American Baptists elected
women to their top offices, and
the Lutheran Church in America and American Lutheran Church ordained their first women ministers.

U.S. (Southern) squeaked
through a touchy convention
without a threatened split, but
some disgruntled forces in the Church still were planning on it.

Providence, R.I., resigned from
the episcopacy, protesting its rigidity. He was the second bishop in this country to do so.

—The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod turned aside proposals by its president, the Rev. Dr. J. A. O. Preus, to clamp unprecedented, new restrictions on doctrinal interpretation.

—John Cardinal Krol of Philadelphia, often called a conservative, was elected president of the National Council of Catholic Bishops, succeeding a moderately liberal bishop, John Cardinal Dearden of Detroit.

—Southern Baptists had more trouble with putting their beliefs in print. At the behest of their convention, another Bible

write an Old Testament commentary along conservative

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Kiss-And-Teller Seldom Believed

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago, whilst in the pictures, I foolishly allowed a boy named Brian to kiss me. (I didn't know him very well.) He also tried to grope me, but I foiled his attempt.

Now some friends who live in his neighborhood have told me that Brian has been telling everyone that he had what he calls "a go at me." This is a lie! But, Abby, I fear people may believe him and I perhaps will be classed as "easy" which I certainly am not.

What should I do? I would dread to think that my reputation is soiled at age 16 because of this one incident.

WORRIED IN IRELAND

DEAR ABBY: Don't worry about it. Boys who kiss and tell are known not only for their kissing and telling but for boasting about conquests that never materialized.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I married Bob, a sweet easy going guy. It was his first marriage and my second. I had a daughter (Jill) who is now four. Bob is the only father Jill remembers, and she worships him. He adores her, too.

Last week my ex called and said Bob could adopt Jill if he wanted to. I was thrilled! When I told Bob, he said, "Nothing doing. He just wants to get out of paying the $40 a month child support, and I'm not letting him get away with it. He'll support Jill until she's 18."

Abby, when Bob and I were

By J.T. WOLKERSTORFER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — If 1972 brings dramatic changes in Indochina they seem likely to be achieved by force of arms, not by the stroke of a pen. Peace remains as elusive as at any time during a quarter century of bloodshed.

More and more fighting has spilled over into Laos and Cambodia, which are North Vietnam's supply lines to South Vietnam.

But this country remains Hanoi's prime target.

The Saigon government enters 1972 facing the prospect of new enemy offensives and a steadily diminishing allied presence; if its ARVN forces did the bulk of ground fighting in 1971, they must do more of it in '72.

U.S. troop strength will be down to 139,000 or less a month from now. A residual force of approximately 50,000 is projected for July 1. This will include advisers, helicopter units, logistics personnel and, to provide their security, about three infantry brigades.

and release of American prisoners in return for the two northern provinces."

Saigon's army faces one major disadvantage as American forces withdraw: it is conventionally trained, modeled on the U.S. Army—but without the helicopter mobility or tactical air support which the American Army has relied on.

Even ranking U.S. officials here concede that it was at least naive to suggest to the American people that a U.S.-style democracy was possible or practical in today's South Vietnam.

Thieu's major problems in 1972 will be the economy and building a working government at the village and hamlet level. A cutback in U.S. military spending and the inevitable reduction in American foreign aid are posing grave problems for a country with virtually no exports or production.

The Thieu regime has proposed sweeping economic reforms, designed to reduce imports, stimulate production and exports, attract foreign investment, increase tax revenue and reduce government expenditures. Sound as the aims may be, they are currently a political football. Even if they were fully effective it might be five years before the economy even approached self-sufficiency.

The war has totally disrupted Cambodia's marginal economy. Indochina, in summary, appears headed for another year of unabated and possibly intensified war, aggravated by political and economic turbulence and the withdrawal of U.S. and Allied forces.

Thant Ends 10 Years As U.N. Chief

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Haggard but smiling bravely, U Thant was given a rousing sendoff by his colleagues and staff as he left U.N. headquarters for the last time as secretary-general.

"I am an optimist," Thant told newsmen Thursday night. "I have hope for the future of the United Nations."

"There might be difficulties, perhaps for a couple of years. But things will improve."

Thant said he felt "greatly relieved" at stepping down from the job he often complained has vast responsibilities but little power.

Asked what gave him the greatest satisfaction at the end of 10 years in office, Thant, in a reference to the admission of Communist China this year, replied: "The principle of universality is almost fulfilled, I would say."

Police To Assist Merry-makers Home

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Merry-makers in the suburban Detroit community of Dearborn may panic Friday night when their host or bartender tells them they're loaded and he's calling the police.

But instead of being taken to the city jail, the overzealous New Year's Eve celebrant will be ferried home by one Dearborn's finest.

Kiss-And-Teller Seldom Believed

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago, whilst in the pictures, I foolishly allowed a boy named Brian to kiss me. (I didn't know him very well.) He also tried to grope me, but I foiled his attempt.

Now some friends who live in his neighborhood have told me that Brian has been telling everyone that he had what he calls "a go at me." This is a lie! But, Abby, I fear people may believe him and I perhaps will be classed as "easy" which I certainly am not.

What should I do? I would dread to think that my reputation is soiled at age 16 because of this one incident.

WORRIED IN IRELAND
DEAR WORRIED: Don't worry about it. Boys who kiss and tell are known not only for their kissing and telling but for boasting about conquests that never materialized.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I married Bob, a sweet easy going guy. It was his first marriage and my second. I had a daughter (Jill) who is now four. Bob is the only father Jill remembers, and she worships him. He adores her, too.

Last week my ex called and said Bob could adopt Jill if he wanted to. I was thrilled! When I told Bob, he said, "Nothing doing. He just wants to get out of paying the $40 a month child support, and I'm not letting him get away with it. He'll support Jill until she's 18."

Abby, when Bob and I were

first married he wanted to adopt Jill but my ex was real nasty about it so now Bob says he wouldn't adopt Jill on a bet.

I am getting to resent Bob now, but I won't bring up the adoption if it kills me. I really love him, but I'm afraid the resentment will build up inside me and one day I'll explode. What should I do?

JILL'S MOM

DEAR MOM: Don't wait for the explosion. Tell Bob how you feel and ask him to please reconsider. It's better to talk out your feelings, even though Bob may not change his mind.

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing for our school's entire faculty in regard to a recent article in your column in which you stated that there are better ways to discipline a child, other than physical punishment.

We are interested in knowing a few, since after years of teaching (especially in the lower elementary grades) we teachers have found that an occasional swat can work wonders when all the reasoning in the world has failed.

TEACHERS OUT OF TRICKS
DEAR TEACHERS: Surely you have heard of disciplining a child by denying him a privilege he enjoys? The "occasional swat" which you find works "wonders" can, in some schools, "swat" the teacher right out of a job.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU:
My wish for you and yours is a happy, healthy, peaceful New Year.

SAIGON (AP) — If 1972

brings dramatic changes in Indochina they seem likely to be achieved by force of arms, not by the stroke of a pen. Peace remains as elusive as at any time during a quarter century of bloodshed.

More and more fighting has spilled over into Laos and Cambodia, which are North Vietnam's supply lines to South Vietnam.

But this country remains Hanoi's prime target.

The Saigon government enters 1972 facing the prospect of new enemy offensives and a steadily diminishing allied presence; if its ARVN forces did the bulk of ground fighting in 1971, they must do more of it in '72.

U.S. troop strength will be down to 139,000 or less a month from now. A residual force of approximately 50,000 is projected for July 1. This will include advisers, helicopter units, logistics personnel and, to provide their security, about three infantry brigades.

Those figures do not include some 13,000 Navy men of the 7th Fleet or some 30,000 Americans, mostly airmen, based in Thailand.

Troops from Australia and New Zealand are virtually gone, with Thais and Koreans now making up the bulk of 50,000 in outside forces not counting the Americans. Both Thailand and Korea already have begun withdrawal of their troops.

Despite the allied withdrawal, the military situation in the Mekong Delta and military region 3 surrounding Saigon seems relatively stable.

Military and diplomatic sources predict a North Vietnamese offensive in the central highlands, perhaps timed to coincide with President Nixon's trip to Peking. Intelligence reports indicate an ominous enemy buildup in the tri-border area opposite the highland outposts of Kontum and Dak To.

Diplomatic sources also predict a North Vietnamese drive into the two provinces below the demilitarized zone in late summer, when the U.S. presidential campaign is on.

Still, the northernmost provinces are probably South Vietnam's most vulnerable. North Vietnamese troops operate almost with impunity in mountainous running from the Laotian border to the narrow strip of populated coastal lowlands.

In addition, North Vietnamese supply lines across the DMZ and through Laos are shorter than those to other parts of South Vietnam.

"The three North Vietnamese divisions now operating around the Plain of Jars in Laos may be diverted for a slashing attack aimed at taking Quang Tri and Thua Thien in late summer," one military source speculates.

"Such an attack would be followed immediately by a North Vietnamese bid for a cease-fire and a negotiated settlement. The terms might be: an end to the fighting in South Vietnam and release of American prisoners in return for the two northern provinces."

The South Vietnamese Air Force is ultimately programmed for 1,300 aircraft including 500 helicopters. Commanders operating in eastern Cambodia have found only a few helicopters available for trooplift, resupply, medical evacuation and command and control.

Over-all, there's little doubt the South Vietnamese army and militia are better than ever. In most areas, they are operating without U.S. advisers at the battalion level, and in some cases with almost no U.S. direct support.

But their effectiveness remains uneven, with good units and bad—and they have yet to fight a major battle against sizable units without massive U.S. air support.

In Laos and Cambodia, the military situation remains critical. In the past two weeks, North Vietnamese forces have recaptured the Plain of Jars and the Bolovens Plateau from Laotian troops.

Loss of the plain and positions to the south and west makes Long Cheng — the semi-secret base of Gen. Vang Pao's CIA-backed guerrilla army — extremely vulnerable. If Long Cheng falls, there is little to keep enemy forces from moving on Vientiane, the capital.

While troops have pushed dangerously close to both capitals, military sources say North Vietnam neither needs nor wants to capture them.

Their primary interest is in keeping Laotian and Cambodian forces off balance and preoccupied with protecting their capitals, thus keeping them away from supply routes and sanctuaries needed for attacks on South Vietnam.

Politically, President Nguyen Van Thieu has proven himself Saigon's most astute and powerful politician since Ngo Dinh Diem. His grip on military and administrative machinery is beyond challenge for the foreseeable future. Although the one-man presidential election in October was widely regarded as a farce, there is no doubt Thieu would have won any election because he is the country's best known and most viable political figure.

Even ranking U.S. officials here concede that it was at least naive to suggest to the American people that a U.S.-style democracy was possible or practical in today's South Vietnam.

Thieu's major problems in 1972 will be the economy and building a working government at the village and hamlet level. A cutback in U.S. military spending and the inevitable reduction in American foreign aid are posing grave problems for a country with virtually no exports or production.

The Thieu regime has proposed sweeping economic reforms, designed to reduce imports, stimulate production and exports, attract foreign investment, increase tax revenue and reduce government expenditures. Sound as the aims may be, they are currently a political football. Even if they were fully effective it might be five years before the economy even approached self-sufficiency.

The war has totally disrupted Cambodia's marginal economy. Indochina, in summary, appears headed for another year of unabated and possibly intensified war, aggravated by political and economic turbulence and the withdrawal of U.S. and Allied forces.

Thant Ends 10 Years As U.N. Chief

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Haggard but smiling bravely, U Thant was given a rousing sendoff by his colleagues and staff as he left U.N. headquarters for the last time as secretary-general.

"I am an optimist," Thant told newsmen Thursday night. "I have hope for the future of the United Nations."

"There might be difficulties, perhaps for a couple of years. But things will improve."

Thant said he felt "greatly relieved" at stepping down from the job he often complained has vast responsibilities but little power.

Asked what gave him the greatest satisfaction at the end of 10 years in office, Thant, in a reference to the admission of Communist China this year, replied: "The principle of universality is almost fulfilled, I would say."

He added that his one regret was that the divided countries were still not in the world body, "but I guess the two Germans will be in next year."

He added that his one regret was that the divided countries were still not in the world body, "but I guess the two Germans will be in next year."

Wildcats Crush Mustangs In Consolation, 83-57

Good Shooting Highlights Fray

Rex Riddle kept driving the lane and Marc Garrett was smoking the nets with 20 foot jump shots as each led the Ace's with 17 points apiece. Two other players hit in double figures for Amanda, Dave Kraft popped 14 and Rod Miller scored 11 as the scoring balanced out with Gary Rainer hitting for eight and grabbing ten rebounds, and Greg Glendinning scoring two.

The Logan Elm fans had plenty to cheer for as Tom Sykes was smoking the nets for the second night straight as he scored 18 points. Tim Justice who saw limited action because of foul trouble and Doug Barnett who has just worked his way into the starting line up, and was the Brave's top rebounder at 9, scored 14 each. Alex Jones popped 11, Jeff Young hit for six and Gary Bonner hit two.

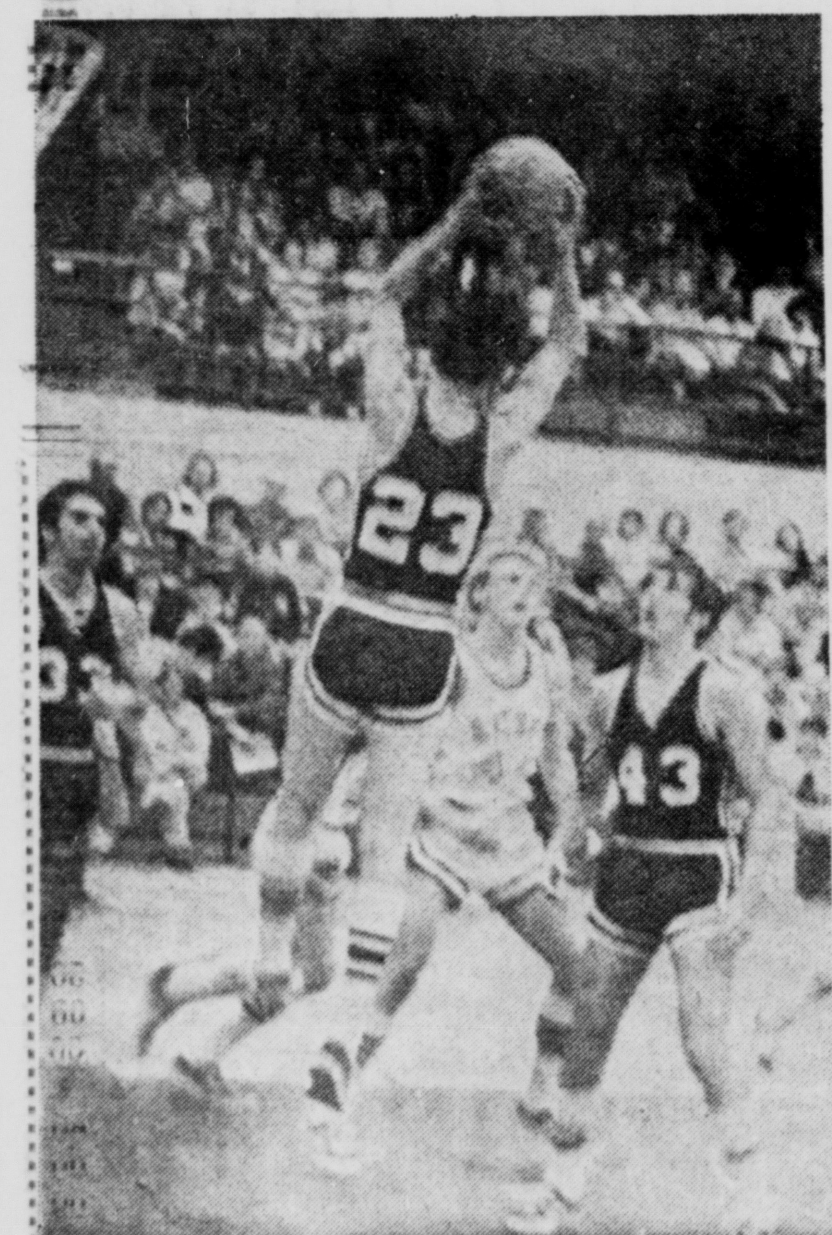

"The battle between the Braves and the Aces was very close statistically with Amanda hitting 11 of 20 free throws for 55 per cent, made 29 of 56 shots from the field for 51 per cent, turned the ball over 12 times, grabbed 26 rebounds and committed 12 personal fouls.

LOGAN ELM connected 15 of 18 foul shots for 83 per cent, hit 25 of 51 shots from the field.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

After the Cleveland Browns pathetic performance last Sunday against the Baltimore Colts in a championship playoff game, we think its time for Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the league to take a good look at the Central Division.

Being an old Brown fan — "We go back to 1946 and the original team that gave us many a thrill on some bitter cold days in the confines of Lakefront Stadium — It hurts to admit that the Browns were only in the title race through the courtesy of a weak Central Division.

We honestly feel that teams like the Rams, Lions and Raiders, who failed to gain a spot in the playoffs, would have made a shambles of the Central Division if they had been fortunate enough to be in it.

Some of this is apparently rubbing off on Brown fans attested to by the fact that the game with the Colts was played before a less than capacity crowd — Something unheard of in the history of the Browns.

So just a word of caution to Arthur Modell and the Browns organization — They had better get on the ball or the once mighty Browns will be playing to echoes instead of fans at the stadium — Believe us — We've seen it happen in Cleveland and it hurts.

In the opening game against the Furman College freshmen, Reisinger set a new school record with 44 points and 24 rebounds.

He is a 1970 graduate of Zane Trace and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Reisinger of Kingston.

Our little gem of information — It has been reported that Danish fishermen are destroying the salmon population by taking tons of them from the salmon beds off the coast of West Greenland — Wonder how they get their fishing hooks into the cans?

Our "fearless" forecast — Michigan over Stanford . . . Auburn to down Oklahoma . . . Penn State will upend Texas . . . Nebraska will beat Alabama . . . Dolphins will bust the Colts . . . Cowboys will outgun the 49ers.

We wish all of your nothing but the best in the coming year and would like to thank you for being so nice to us in the past year.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Top College Gridders Set Bowl Contests

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Nebraska-Alabama meeting in the Orange Bowl could be a forerunner of college football playoffs to determine a national champion. But for now it's just the best game late and the bowl makers arranged for New Year's Day.

There are other bowls in the holiday week, including the Sugar, Rose and Cotton bowls, also Jan. 1. None have the flavor, however, of the match-up between the No. 1 Cornhuskers and the No. 2 Crimson Tide.

Nebraska is a deadly efficient offensive and defensive machine which earlier this year defeated then No. 2-ranked Oklahoma. The Huskers are not as colorful a team as Alabama but under Coach Bob Devaney have a 31-game unbeaten streak, including 22 straight victories. The team also is looking for its second consecutive national title.

Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama has won three national championships. A Tide victory over Nebraska would give him a fourth. He's relying on slashing running back Johnny Musso and the Wishbone-T to make up in speed what his team lacks in strength.

Oklahoma passed on Nebraska and it appears Alabama may try to do the same with Terry Davis at quarterback. Davis threw only 66 times during the season, but completed 42 for 452 yards and eight touchdowns.

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, Oklahoma and Auburn are preparing for the Sugar Bowl. The Sooners use the Wishbone-T, an offense Auburn saw in its game against Alabama.

Auburn has a top scoring threat of its own in Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan, a quarterback, and his favorite target, wide receiver Terry Beasley.

Stanford faces another high-scoring offense in Michigan in the Rose Bowl, and Coach John Ralston says the Pacific-8 champions will lose if the defense must play 75 per cent of the game. He says the team must cut down the Wolverines running and force more passing.

Coach Bo Schlembecher of Big Ten champion Michigan

plays North Carolina, coached by his brother, Bill.

Georgia, No. 6 in national rankings, has an offense sparked by strong running quarterback Andy Johnson, and scabback Jimmy "The Greek" Poulos. North Carolina, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, has three 500-plus yard rushers in Lewis "Green Giant" Jolley, George Hamilton and Ike Oglesby.

Houston's triple-option offense takes on Colorado's strong-charging Buffalos in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl in another New Year's Eve game. The Cougars have led the nation in offense for five years and have in the backfield Robert Newhouse, who averaged 159 yards per game. Colorado has sophomore Charley Davis who rushed for 1,386 yards last season to become the school's best rusher in history.

Balanced Scoring Brings Victory

Everyone got into the scoring act for Laurelville as the Wildcats rolled over Westfall, 83-57, to capture the consolation game in the Logan Elm Holiday tournament Thursday at Spangler Memorial gym.

The Wildcats balanced offense proved too much for Westfall to handle as Laurelville led 21-11 at the end of the first eight minutes of play, pulled out to a 47-23 edge at halftime, led 63-36, at the conclusion of the third canto and fought the rallying Mustangs on even terms in the final frame.

Coming to life in the last quarter, Westfall put 21 points on the scoreboard but the Wildcats countered with 20 of their own to keep the game out of reach.

It was Marty Eveland netting 21 markers to lead the Wildcats, Don Kempton added 14, Roger Valentine had 13, Richard Jones 11, Keith Ebert and Greg VanCuren had eight apiece, John Huber hooped four, Rich Roth tallied two and Don Roth and Lewis Newland each had one to complete the totals.

Wayne Wright paced the Mustangs with 13 points, Mike Peterson had 12, Doug McKay six, Marc Easterday and Steve Johnson each added five, Scott Riddle had four, Larry Harris, Tom Cook and Tim Neff had three apiece and John Valone had one in the losing cause.

Laurelville connected on 33 of 66 shots from the floor for an even 50 per cent while Westfall hit 23 of 55 from the field for 42 per cent.

Fouls were predominate in the contest with the Wildcats converting 33 of 52 for 64 per cent and the Mustangs hit 23 of 43 from the charity stripe for 53 per cent.

Both teams were well matched on the boards with Laurelville grabbing 40 rebounds and Westfall pulling down 39 missed shots.

LAURELVILLE is now 5-3 for the season and will host Piketon Jan. 7.

Westfall stands 2-7 for the year and will be at Adena Jan. 7.

L.A. Lakers Win Again; Stop SuperSonics, 122-106

SEATTLE (AP) — It is altogether unlikely, Jim McMillan says, that he will become bored with winning, even though the Los Angeles Lakers' string is 30 games long now and is timed by months.

Spencer Haywood of the Seattle SuperSonics had expressed some concern about boredom gently settling over McMillan and the rest of the Lakers. He had mentioned it to McMillan Thursday night as the Lakers gutted the Sonics 122-106 to continue their major league winning streak.

"Haywood asked me during the game, 'Don't you get tired of winning?'" McMillan recalled. "I told him no, because we beat teams differently every night."

This version called for McMillan to score 34 points, Wilt Chamberlain to pull down 24 rebounds, Jerry West to assist on 11 baskets, and the Lakers to go off on scoring streaks of 12 and 10 straight points and a 26-9 rout when pressured by the Sonics.

"Jim was outstanding tonight," Coach Bill Sharman said. "He's the complete ball player. He does all the intelligent things. We didn't try to go to him in the first half, but we did in the second."

Even without the Lakers looking for him, McMillan scored 16 points in the first half, 12 of them in the last four minutes of the second period, including six during the Lakers' 12-point streak. His scoring helped the Lakers come from the low end of a 43-42 score to lead 56-45 at halftime.

Seattle charged back to take an 83-82 lead with just over 10 minutes left in the game. But before McMillan, Chamberlain

For American Basketball Association consistency, try the Virginia Squires and Kentucky's Dan Issel.

The Squires topped Carolina 124-120 Thursday night—the third straight victory for Virginia over the Cougars in as many nights.

And Issel scored 21 points in the first half and then hit the same number after intermission for a game total of 42 points, leading Kentucky to a 111-89 victory over the Floridians.

In other ABA action Thursday night, Dallas topped Memphis 102-99 and Utah downed Denver 103-98 in a double-header played at Denver.

Good Shooting Highlights Fray

Logan Elm couldn't contain the speed and high shooting percentage of the Aces as Amanda squeezed by Logan Elm 69-65 to win the holiday tournament played at Logan Elm Thursday.

Rex Riddle kept driving the lane and Marc Garrett was smoking the nets with 20 foot jump shots as each led the Aces with 17 points apiece. Two other players hit in double figures for Amanda. Dave Kraft popped 14 and Rod Miller scored 11 as the scoring balanced out with Gary Rainer hitting for eight and grabbing ten rebounds, and Greg Glendinning scoring two.

The Logan Elm fans had plenty to cheer for as Tom Sykes was smoking the nets for the second night straight as he scored 18 points. Tim Justice who saw limited action because of foul trouble and Doug Barnett, who has just worked his way into the starting line up, and was the Braves' top rebounder at 9, scored 14 each. Alex Jones popped 11, Jeff Young hit for six and Gary Benner sank two.

"The battle between the Braves and the Aces was very close statistically with Amanda hitting 11 of 20 free throws for 55 per cent, made 29 of 56 shots from the field for 51 per cent, turned the ball over 12 times, grabbed 26 rebounds and committed 12 personal fouls.

Top College Gridders Set Bowl Contests

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Nebraska-Alabama meeting in the Orange Bowl could be a forerunner of college football playoffs to determine a national champion. But for now it's just the best game fate and the bowl makers arranged for New Year's Day.

There are other bowls in the holiday week, including the Sugar, Rose and Cotton bowls, also Jan. 1. None have the flavor, however, of the matchup between the No. 1 Cornhuskers and the No. 2 Crimson Tide.

Nebraska is a deadly efficient offensive and defensive machine which earlier this year defeated then No. 2-ranked Oklahoma. The Huskers are not as colorful a team as Alabama but under Coach Bob Devaney have a 31-game unbeaten streak, including 22 straight victories. The team also is looking for its second consecutive national title.

Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama has won three national championships. A Tide victory over Nebraska would give him a fourth. He's relying on slashing running back Johnny Musso and the Wishbone-T to make up in speed what his team lacks against the Cornhuskers' strength.

Oklahoma passed on Nebraska and it appears Alabama may try to do the same with Terry Davis at quarterback. Davis threw only 66 times during the season, but completed 42 for 452 yards and eight touchdowns.

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, Oklahoma and Auburn are preparing for the Sugar Bowl. The Sooners use the Wishbone-T, an offense Auburn saw in its game against Alabama.

The Sooners had the most potent scoring team during the season and Coach Ralph Jordan of Auburn admits his team's defense must be extremely sharp to stop the likes of quarterback Jack Mildren, and running backs Greg Pruitt and Joe Wylie.

Auburn has a top scoring threat of its own in Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan, a quarterback, and his favorite target, wide receiver Terry Beasley.

Stanford faces another high-scoring offense in Michigan in the Rose Bowl, and Coach John Ralston says the Pacific-8 champions will lose if the defense must play 75 per cent of the game. He says the team must cut down the Wolverines running and force more passing.

Coach Bo Schlenker of Big Ten champion Michigan says Stanford is the best passing team his players have faced all season, but the defense can't be content to just worry about the pass. He warns the Indians run well, and would not hesitate if Michigan was concentrating too much on defending against a passing attack.

Quarterback Eddie Phillips has been chosen as the starting Texas quarterback against Penn State in the Cotton Bowl after being out with multiple injuries this season. The Nittany Lions now must worry about Phillips engineering of the Wishbone while the Longhorns also will have their problems with the Penn State offense which features such runners as Lydell Mitchell and Franco Harris.

In tonight's Gator Bowl, or for this year, the Brother Bowl, Georgia, coached by Vince Doley, plays North Carolina, coached by his brother, Bill.

Georgia, No. 6 in national rankings, has an offense sparked by strong running quarterback Andy Johnson, and seabeck Jimmy "The Greek" Poulos. North Carolina, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, has three 500-plus yard rushers in Lewis "Green Giant" Jolley, George Hamilton and Ike Oglesby.

Houston's triple-option offense takes on Colorado's strong-charging Buffalos in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl in another New Year's Eve game. The Cougars have led the nation in offense for five years and have in the backfield Robert Newhouse, who averaged 159 yards per game. Colorado has sophomore Charley Davis who rushed for 1,386 yards last season to become the school's best rusher in history.

After the Cleveland Browns pathetic performance last Sunday against the Baltimore Colts in a championship playoff game, we think its time for Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the league to take a good look at the Central Division.

Being an old Brown fan — "We go back to 1946 and the original team that gave us many a thrill on some bitter cold days in the confines of Lakefront Stadium — It hurts to admit that the Browns were only in the title race through the courtesy of a weak Central Division.

We honestly feel that teams like the Rams, Lions and Raiders, who failed to gain a spot in the playoffs, would have made a shambles of the Central Division if they had been fortunate enough to be in it.

Cleveland fans are a tough lot and want a winner — Just look what has happened to the once proud Cleveland Indians who don't draw enough fans to keep the seats dusted at the ball park.

Some of this is apparently rubbing off on Brown fans attested to by the fact that the game with the Colts was played before a less than capacity crowd — Something unheard of in the history of the Browns.

So just a word of caution to Arthur Modell and the Browns organization — They had better get on the ball or the once mighty Browns will be playing to echoes instead of fans at the stadium — Believe us — We've seen it happen in Cleveland and it hurts.

In the opening game against the Furman College freshmen, Reisinger set a new school record with 44 points and 24 rebounds.

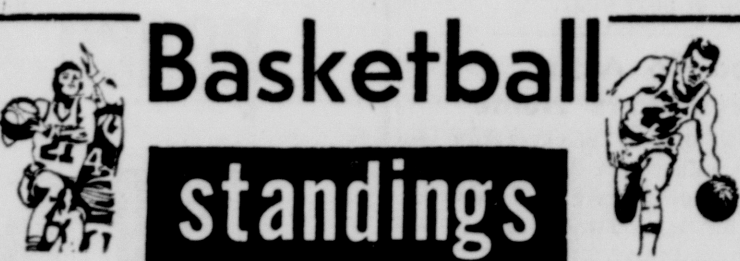

He is a 1970 graduate of Zane Trace and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Reisinger of Kingston.

Our little gem of information — It has been reported that Danish fishermen are destroying the salmon population by taking tons of them from the salmon beds off the coast of West Greenland — Wonder how they get their fishing hooks into the cans?

Our "fearless" forecast — Michigan over Stanford . . . Auburn to down Oklahoma . . . Penn State will upend Texas . . . Nebraska will beat Alabama . . . Dolphins will bust the Colts . . . Cowboys will outgun the 49ers.

We wish all of your nothing but the best in the coming year and would like to thank you for being so nice to us in the past year.

Rookies May Hold Key To Baltimore Playoff Chances

Roly-poly Don Nottingham and little-used Don McCauley, a pair of rookie running backs, could hold the keys to the Baltimore Colts' chances Sunday in the American Football Conference championship game against the Miami Dolphins at the Orange Bowl.

The 5-foot-10, 210-pound Nottingham, known as "The Human Bowling Ball," and the next-to-last player selected in last season's National Football League draft, and the 6-1, 207-pound McCauley, "The Colts' No. 1 draft selection, could form Baltimore's starting running back combination against the rugged Dolphins.

They are the backups for regulars Norm Bulaich and Tom Matte, both of whom are nursing injuries. Bulaich has a hamstring pull in his right leg and didn't play in last Sunday's 20-3 playoff victory over Cleveland. Nottingham took his place and scored both Baltimore touchdowns while gaining 92 yards in 23 carries.

Matte, an 11-year NFL veteran, bruised his right knee in the triumph over the Browns, but the injury was not disclosed until Wednesday.

Nottingham, The Colts' 17th round draft selection, has seen more action this year than McCauley. He has gained 388 yards in 92 carries and scored five touchdowns. McCauley amassed 246 yards in 56 attempts.

The game will be the third encounter this season between the Colts and Dolphins. Miami won the first meeting 17-14 at the Orange Bowl, then the Colts took the second game 14-3 at Baltimore.

The AFC title clash will follow the National Football Conference championship game between the Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49ers at Irving, Tex.

The NFC game will be a rematch of last season's title showdown in which the Cowboys defeated the 49ers 17-10.

The Cowboys, participating in the NFL playoffs for the sixth consecutive year, still are seeking their first league championship. They finished this season with seven straight victories, after Roger Staubach was installed as the starting quarterback.

San Francisco, an NFL member since 1946, had never won a title of any kind until last season when it captured the Western Division crown.

Sunday's winners will meet Jan. 16 in Super Bowl VI at New Orleans.

Balanced Scoring Brings Victory

Everyone got into the scoring act for Laurelville as the Wildcats rolled over Westfall, 83-57, to capture the consolation game in the Logan Elm Holiday tournament Thursday at Spangler Memorial gym.

The Wildcats balanced offense proved too much for Westfall to handle as Laurelville led 21-11 at the end of the first eight minutes of play, pulled out to a 47-23 edge at halftime, led 63-36, at the conclusion of the third canto and fought the rallying Mustangs on even terms in the final frame.

Coming to life in the last quarter, Westfall put 21 points on the scoreboard but the Wildcats countered with 20 of their own to keep the game out of reach.

It was Marty Eveland netting 21 markers to lead the Wildcats, Don Kempton added 14, Roger Valentine had 13, Richard Jones 11, Keith Ebert and Greg VanCuren had eight apiece, John Huber hooped four, Rich Roth tallied two and Don Roth and Lewis Newland each had one to complete the totals.

WAYNE Wright paced the Mustangs with 13 points, Mike Peterson had 12, Doug McKay six, Marc Easterday and Steve Johnson each added five, Scott Riddle had four, Larry Harris, Tom Cook and Tim Neff had three apiece and John Valone had one in the losing cause. Laurelville connected on 33 of 66 shots from the floor for an even 50 per cent while Westfall hit 23 of 55 from the field for 42 per cent.

Fouls were predominate in the contest with the Wildcats converting 33 of 52 for 64 per cent and the Mustangs hit 23 of 43 from the charity stripe for 53 per cent.

Both teams were well matched on the boards with Laurelville grabbing 40 rebounds and Westfall pulling down 39 missed shots.

Valentine and Jones led Laurelville in the rebound department while Easterday and Harris did the job for Westfall.

L.A. Lakers Win Again; Stop SuperSonics, 122-106

SEATTLE (AP) — It is altogether unlikely, Jim McMillan says, that he will become bored with winning, even though the Los Angeles Lakers' string is 30 games long now and is timed by months.

Spencer Haywood of the Seattle SuperSonics had expressed some concern about boredom gently setting over McMillan and the rest of the Lakers. He had mentioned it to McMillan Thursday night as the Lakers gutted the Sonics 122-106 to continue their major league winning streak.

"Haywood asked me during the game, 'Don't you get tired of winning?'" McMillan recalled. "I told him no, because we beat teams differently every night."

This version called for McMillan to score 34 points, Wilt Chamberlain to pull down 24 rebounds, Jerry West to assist on 11 baskets, and the Lakers to go off on scoring streaks of 12 and 10 straight points and a 26-9 rout when pressured by the Sonics.

"Jim was outstanding tonight," Coach Bill Sharman said. "He's the complete ball player. He does all the intelligent things. We didn't try to go to him in the first half, but we did in the second."

Even without the Lakers looking for him, McMillan scored 16 points in the first half, 12 of them in the last four minutes of the second period, including six during the Lakers' 12-point streak. His scoring helped the Lakers come from the low end of a 43-42 score to lead 56-45 at halftime.

Seattle charged back to take an 83-82 lead with just over 10 minutes left in the game. But before McMillan, Chamberlain and West, who had 28 points, sat down for the night, the Lakers outscored Seattle 26-9 in one streak and had taken a luxurious 111-92 lead.

Ole Miss Trips Tech; Wins 41-18

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Peach Bowl was a lopsided contest Thursday night as the Ole Miss Rebels scored virtually at will in the first half and then added only three more points in the last two quarters as they dug in defensively and finished with a 41-18 victory over Georgia Tech.

The game had been billed as a duel between Tech's stingy defense and the Rebels' explosive offense, but in the first half the Jacket defense did not live up to equal billing with the Rebel offense.

Ole Miss, despite muddy conditions, struck efficiently on the ground and through the air to score five touchdowns and a field goal while Tech was searching for a first down.

Tailback Greg Ainsworth, greased with mud, slipped through Tech defenders time and again and wound up with 119 yards rushing.

New Year's babies are Helen Whitten, John Allen Graffis, Frank Henson, Marilyn McAllister Hawk, Iola Gifford, Mable Stoer, Mark Mosley, Elizabeth Robbins, Margaret Wamsley, Harold Fee, Jan. 1; Alma Garland, Miles Henson, Jean Justus, Sr. Ruth Finch Jan. 2; Kate Schleich, Bill Metzger, Christine Stuckey, Rosemary Tarbill, Maxwell Graham, Jerry Lahmer, Kevin McCoy, Richard Eugene Speakman, Jr., Martha Graham, Jan. 3; Robyn McCoy, Nancy Fenstermaker, Heskett, Carol Azbell, Wilson Puckett Jr., Meg Wamsley, Jan. 4; Joann Trapp Reisinger, Gene (Don) Steinhauser, Christopher McConkey, Christy Hanson, Toni Justus, Ronnie Welsh, Jan. 5; Eric Schleich, Vicki Metzger, Clara Belle Valentine, Mike Funk, Doug Marshall, Kim Graham, Neil Keller, John Dearth Sr., Stephanie Sutton, Jan. 6; Diane Dearth, Bart Elliott, Dona Straley, J. B. Dick, Jan. 7; John Brown, Sheila Eitel, Jan. 8.

Promising to love, honor and obey (?) were Carroll and Sandy Whitten eleven years ago come Dec. 30; traditional and modern day version of the 60th anniversary concur that it is the diamond time and so it will be for Luther and Hattie Anderson on Jan. 1. No special celebration is planned but the family will gather around and of course the many friends of this highly respected couple will extend sincere best wishes and congratulations.

The Andersons, the Floyd Tompkins and Leo Anderson of Circleville area were the Christmas day dinner guests of Marvie baby and Dolly Thompson, and Debbie, Vicki, Shirley and Brad and Debbie Krahn.

Sunday dinner guests at the Thompson manse were the Dick Weaver family and Mrs. Weavers mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. McKinney from Circleville and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford and family of Chillicothe.

Making the day a little brighter at the Bert and Virginia Francis home was the arrival of Milford and Marilyn Ferguson and their Melody, Melinda and Michelle who are with Milford's mother in Columbus for the time being they having arrived in the states within the past couple of weeks from their missionary post in Brazil. They will return in four to six months to their work after Milford recuperates from soon to undergo surgery.

It was family day for Sam and Anna Cornwell and their wee ones when they hosted to dinner, Charles and Helen Cornwell, Ethel Inez, Betty, Carol Ann and Brian, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lowery and Debbie of Circleville, Mrs. Pat Reed, Terry, Jeanie, Scotty and Beverly of our village, Sherman and Dana Redding and Little Sherman of Clarksburg, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reed and Lucy of Columbus, Jimmie Steele and Miss Diane Payne, local lad and lass.

Another big family dinner took place at the home of Jack and Patti Brayshaw and sons Rick and Barry. An annual Christmas tradition the guests were Rodney and Lucille Betts, Aunt Ilo Stevenson, Uncle Thurman Betts, Jack and Janet Betts with Sabrina, Charmaine, Kelly and Doug, Mrs. Betty Shonkwiler all localities, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lozier, Bob and Flo Betts and their twin sons Gary and Larry with his mate Mary Betts, Mrs. Caniz Carman and daughter Margie all from Roundtown and Grandma B (Agnes Brayshaw) of down Woodlyn way. Christmas eve at the Brayshaw home was shared with Grandma B and Miss Jan Thompson of near Fox.

The hospitality of Wayne and Janet Carter's home encompassed Mary Alice Greenwood and son Ronald during the holidays. On Christmas Day Miss Terry Carter was a guest in the Greenwood home.

Making it another family affair were Oscar and Rosie

Atwood with guests being Wayne and Janice Atwood, Leslie and Lisa of down Laurelville way, Phyllis Shaw and son Johnny Hudak, Denzil and Lois Wright and Brian and Miss Becky Atwood (a niece) and her b.f. of Chillicothe.

Pete and Pearl Cochenour made their traditional annual sojourn to Bill and Vallie Long's home at Daartown and enjoyed all the excitement of the holiday with grandchildren Becky, Jackie, Brett and Jeff. They returned home Monday.

John and Minnie Steinhauser and Jonda tripped to Athens to be with Jeff and Jill Garmire and John Carl on Sunday. This was a first Christmas for John Carl. Jonda will return to studies at Otterbein on Monday.

The Galloway four, Charlie, Ethel, Dena and Brenda spent Christmas with Ethel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gilmore of near Five Points.

Making the home scene for Christmas and all its joys were Rick Fenstermaker of Olde Town, Maine, Bill and Nancy Heskett of Austin Texas, Becky Fenstermaker, student at University of Kentucky and unfortunately she has been felled by that meanie bug "mono." The Heskett's are sharing their vacation time with Dr. Paul and Irma Fenstermaker and sister Rae and with Bill's parents at Springfield.

Renewing friendship ties on Christmas night were Nancy, Linda Vance of Derby and Lynn Straley, a teacher in the Laurelville school system. Linda is now associated with a newspaper in Washington D.C. and had jetted home for the holiday. She planned to drive solo back to D. C. on Sunday. I know all these "goodies," because the Vances (Chaney and Jane) graciously extended an invitation to our family and Fernando to be with them on Christmas afternoon since among their dinner guests was a couple from Brazil who are graduate students at O.S.U. It was most kind of them to think of us and Fernando enjoyed meeting folks from his home country or continent I should say. He particularly enjoyed talking with Barbara Vance who had studied Spanish and helpfully explained many points of interest to him. Larry Vance and his mate and their adorable two year old Becky of Bucyrus (I think) were also at the Vances. Jerrold Fields and Greg Rickabaugh stopped in during the afternoon and entertained all willing "souls" to a ride on a Model T — open air style!

Fernando has thoroughly enjoyed Christmas in Williamsport, with his foster family and relatives and the many friends who have helped make this a happy time for a young man so many miles from home. A part of it all has been John and Norma Gillfillan, Jo Lynne and Keith (Chip) of Troy, Mrs. Frances Easterday and Dorothy, Mrs. Mildred Hardman of Chillicothe, Mr. Jim Montgomery of our town, Mrs. Ron Beatty, Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood nad Ron, the John Graffis, the Thompsons, Mrs. Linda Hughes of Columbus, Roger and Sue Beck, Mr. Wellington and several Westfall classmates.

Miss Twila West was among those who had Christmas dinner with Nathan and Helen Hyde of Clarksburg. Once again we were the happy recipients of those mouth melting positively delicious caramels that Miss West makes. Divine!

It was a busy, fun filled day for Charlie and Esther Picklesimer and Faith Ann. First of all they were part of the guest list for Christmas dinner (noon time) with dad Elbert and his Vi Picklesimer. Others were Jim and Rosie Picklesimer, J. F., Mindy and Kelly, Bob and Rosemary Picklesimer of Mt. Sterling. That evening the welcome mat was out at their home for Dave and Janet Lovett and Trent of Athens, Brad and Donna Thompson and Marci of Circleville, Mike and Gail Stauffer, Andy and Brent locally, the Bob Picklesimers of Mt. Sterling.

The hospitality of Wayne and Janet Carter's home encompassed Mary Alice Greenwood and son Ronald during the holidays. On Christmas Day Miss Terry Carter was a guest in the Greenwood home.

Making it another family affair were Oscar and Rosie

Esther says it was a full house all afternoon week ago Sunday when the fiftieth anniversary open house for parents Darl and Bessie was held. The golden couple received many lovely gifts in tribute to their accomplishment. Granddaughters, Janet Lovett, Donna Thompson, Connie Drum and grand daughter in-law Ginger Smalley Stant presided at the punch bowl and refreshment table. Special callers were Darl's only sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Roll of Hallsville and Mrs. Mary Linton, a close friend and neighbor for many, many years.

At the Carl Long abode, Bonnie is home for holiday vacation from nursing studies at Holzer Hospital, Gallipolis and will return this weekend. Brad Beatty overnighed Christmas eve with good buddy Johnny Long and spent the day with him. Homer and Alma Long drove in for the afternoon with the family.

Exchanging gifts, eating good food, happy family time — that's what makes Christmas and so it was on Christmas eve at the home of Bob and Pat Metzger and their two "dollers", Crystal and Lori when gathered around were Carl and Mary Gearheart and Marion (Tom) and Katherine Metzger Carter and their Diana and Barbara of Celina. The two Carter girls had been here for a few days making life merry for grandparents, aunts and uncles and cousins.

On Christmas Day the Bob Metzgers were with Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Jones of Frankfort.

Ruth Plummer was a part of the family circle at sister Gladys Arledge and her Jack's home. Their son Harry and his family of Delaware completed the Christmas Day picture. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Amorine of Columbus came a-calling on Ruth.

"Bus" and Helen Whitten and Jim entertained at Christmas dinner, Carroll and Sandy Whitten and youngsters of Frankfort.

As you can see, there was much entertaining in our town during the holiday and this only scratched the surface. There was much, much more but the Herald only allots me a column not the entire newspaper. Maybe we can make it a continued story, hey?

Shucks, I must mention that Paul and Louise Drummond hosted a student from Formosa in their home for the Christmas holiday. He is currently a graduate student at O.S.U. Christmas in America! Nothing like it any place else, no way.

Don Greene continues a patient at Brown Hospital (Veterans) at Dayton and a world of encouragement and cheer would go a long way.

Mrs. Linda Hughes (Cora Beatty's sister) entered University Hospital on Monday to undergo a series of tests and observations. Cards would do much to brighten her day, too.

As 1971 draws conclusively to the finish one can not help but take a backward look at the days traveled and while we've had our share of the lumps we still have so very much to be grateful for and besides how can you truly appreciate the really good things of life if you've never experienced some of the harsher realities? It has been most difficult saying a final farewell to close friends, these are the sad moments of life. To balance the ledger is the joy of birth, making new friendships, strengthening old ones, being a part of God's plan. From our house to your house, go message go gaily on your way and wish to all a HAPPY NEW YEAR'S DAY (all 366 of them in 1972). SALUD!

The Braves got the ball back on a missed foul and Justice made the score 63-61 with two freethrows. Logan Elm stole the ball on a full court press but were unable to make the shot and Amanda went on to win 69-65.

Amanda's record is now 6-2 and Logan Elm's is 3-6. The Braves next game will be with Madison Plains at Madison on Jan. 7, and Amanda will play Pickerington Jan. 4 at Amanda.

NHL Awards Franchises To Groups

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're in the market for a National Hockey League franchise and trying to figure out how much money you'll need, the answer will depend on a couple of factors.

Three new NHL owners were announced Thursday and it cost each group a different amount of money to join hockey's big league.

The NHL awarded franchises in Long Island, N.Y., and Atlanta and shortly afterwards, one of its most successful franchises, the Montreal Canadiens, was sold.

A group headed by Roy Boe, owner of the American Basketball Association's New York Nets, paid $11 million for the Long Island franchise—$6 million to the league and an additional $5 million to the New York Rangers for invading the older club's territorial rights.

Atlanta's franchise, priced at $6 million, was awarded to a group headed by Bill Putnam, former president of the Philadelphia Flyers, one of the NHL's first expansion teams. When the Flyers and five other franchises were added to the NHL in 1967, the price was $2 million.

The Canadiens, whose history of success is unmatched in the NHL, were sold to a group of Canadian businessmen headed by Montreal lawyer Jacques Courtois. The group purchased approximately 700,000 of the 1.25 million shares in the Canadian Arena Company for an estimated $15 million. The purchase gives the new owners control of the NHL club, the recently renovated Montreal Forum where the team plays its home games, and the Nova Scotia Voyageurs, Montreal's American League farm team.

The addition of Long Island and Atlanta increased the NHL to 16 franchises—10 more than the league had five years ago when the first expansion was announced.

Don Greene continues a patient at Brown Hospital (Veterans) at Dayton and a world of encouragement and cheer would go a long way.

Mrs. Linda Hughes (Cora Beatty's sister) entered University Hospital on Monday to undergo a series of tests and observations. Cards would do much to brighten her day, too.

UCLA Wins Tourney, Tops OSU

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Sports Writer
UCLA's national-leading scoring average suffered, but the Bruins' record thrived and so did its ability to work a full-court press.

The Bruins, the nation's top-ranked team, won the Bruin Classic Basketball Tournament Thursday night, beating sixth-rated Ohio State 79-53 for their eighth victory without a loss this season.

The 79 points marked the first time this year the Bruins had not reached the 100-point level, dropping their average from 112.3 points per game to 108.1. But they didn't have to score 100 to wallop Ohio State.

In the biggest surprise of the holiday-packed tournament program, unheralded Villanova upset third-ranked South Carolina 77-76 for the championship of the Quaker City event. Tom Inglesby capped a 28-point performance with two free throws with six seconds remaining, giving the Wildcats their surprising victory. Inglesby was named the tourney's most valuable player.

In another upset, 16th-ranked Maryland routed ninth-rated St. John's N.Y. 90-69 in the final of the Maryland Invitational Christmas Tournament. Jim O'Brien scored 20 points for the Terrapins, who won their eighth game in nine starts. However, Len Elmore, who collected only seven points but grabbed 18 rebounds, blocked numerous shots and stole several passes was named the tourney's most valuable player.

Meanwhile, North Carolina's globetrotting Tarheels were down stubborn Bradley 75-69 for the Sugar Bowl Tournament title. For the fourth-ranked Tarheels, it was their sixth victory in eight days and their third tourney championship. Previously, they won the Big Four in North Carolina and the International Christmas Tournament in Spain.

Virginia, No. 11, remained unbeaten, defeating The Citadel 77-72 for the championship in the Palmetto Classic. Barry Parkhill's 21 points led the Cavaliers, who gained their ninth victory.

Ron Thomas' 28 points and Jim Price's 25 helped 15th-ranked Louisville whip Fordham 77-63 for the Cardinal championship. The Cardinals, who had refused to attend the playing of the National Anthem during the semifinals, changed their tune and stood at attention for the playing of the Anthem before the final game.

Once-beaten Missouri won its first Big Eight Conference pre-season championship since 1954, trimming Kansas State 67-58 for its 10th victory. Sophomore Al Eberhard paced the Tigers with 21 points.

Charlie Mitchell pumped in 33 points, boosting Eastern Kentucky to an 83-78 triumph over Oklahoma City and the title in the All-College Tournament. Undefeated and unranked Duquesne captured the Steel Bowl championship, routing Pitt 87-67 behind sophomore Lionel Billings' 35 points. It was the Dukes eighth victory.

Clemson, sparked by Dave Angel's 27 points and 22 rebounds, downed Auburn 77-67 for the Poinsettia Classic championship.

Northwestern took the Shreveport Invitational title, stopping Centenary 89-82 as Vernon Wilson led the way with 28 points.

Larry Garloch's two free throws with one second remaining enabled Miami, Ohio to squeeze past William and Mary 69-67 for the championship of the Tangerine Bowl Classic.

Tracy Tripucka's 23 points helped Lafayette beat George Washington 85-74 for the title in the Garden State Classic.

Arnie Berman and Rich Cureton each sank two free throws in the final minute, giving Brown a 70-69 decision over Morris Harvey in the final of the Hall of Fame Tournament.

Oral Roberts, playing a major schedule this season for the first time, won the Oral Roberts Classic, thrashing Loyola, Los Angeles 103-86 as Richie Fuqua scored 30 points.

The Quaker City Tournament began with Canisius overcoming Long Island 86-76 and Niagara crushing Cornell 96-69. The game was the first for Cornell since a boycott early this month by its black players in an apparent dispute over their use in games.

Dwight Lamar, the nation's leading scorer, connected for 40 points and Roy Ebron added 35 as 13th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana trimmed California State-Los Angeles 113-102.

Marshall, rated 17th, held off Ohio University 88-81 as Russell Lee scored 26 points.

New Year's babies are Helen Whitten, John Allen Graffis, Frank Henson, Marilyn McAllister Hawk, Iola Gifford, Mable Storer, Mark Mosley, Elizabeth Robbins, Margaret Wamsley, Harold Fee, Jan. 1; Alma Garland, Miles Henson, Jean Justus, Sr. Ruth Finch Jan. 2; Kate Schleich, Bill Metzger, Christine Stuckey, Rosemary Tahlir, Maxwell Graham, Jerry Lahmer, Kevin McCoy, Richard Eugene Speakman, Jr., Martha Graham, Jan. 3; Robyn McCoy, Nancy Fenstermaker, Heskett, Carol Abell, Wilson Puckett Jr., Meg Wamsley, Jan. 4; Joann Trapp Reisinger, Gene (Don) Reinhauser, Christopher McKonkey, Christy Hanson, Toni Justus, Ronnie Welsh, Jan. 5; Eric Schleich, Vicki Metzger, Clara Belle Valentine, Mike Funk, Doug Marshall, Kim Graham, Neil Keller, John Dearth Sr., Stephanie Sutton, Jan. 6; Diane Dearth, Bart Elliott, Dona Straley, J. B. Dick, Jan. 7; John Brown, Sheila Eitel, Jan. 8.

Promising to love, honor and obey (?) are Carroll and Sandy Whitten eleven years ago come Dec. 30; traditional and modern day version of the 60th anniversary concur that it is the diamond time and so it will be for Luther and Hattie Anderson on Jan. 1. No special celebration is planned but the family will gather around and of course the many friends of this highly respected couple will extend sincere best wishes and congratulations.

The Andersons, the Floyd Tompkins and Leo Anderson of Circleville area were the Christmas day dinner guests of Marv and Dolly Thompson, and Debbie, Vicki, Shirley and Brad and Debbie Krahn.

Sunday dinner guests at the Thompson manse were the Dick Weaver family and Mrs. Weavers mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Weaver, Mrs. Jennie McKinney from Circleville and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford and family of Chillicothe.

Making the day a little brighter at the Bert and Virginia Francis home was the arrival of Milford and Marilyn Ferguson and their Melody, Melinda and Michelle who are with Milford's mother in Columbus for the time being they having arrived in the states within the past couple of weeks from their missionary post in Brazil. They will return in four to six months to their work after Milford recuperates from soon to undergo surgery.

It was family day for Sam and Anna Cornwell and their wee ones when they hosted to dinner, Charles and Helen Cornwell, Ethel Inez, Betty, Carol Ann and Brian, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lowery and Debbie of Circleville, Mrs. Pat Reed, Terry, Jeanie, Scotty and Beverly of our village, Sherman and Dana Redding and Little Sherman of Clarksburg, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reed and Lucy of Columbus, Jimmie Steele and Miss Diane Payne, local lad and lass.

Another big family dinner took place at the home of Jack and Patti Brayshaw and sons Rick and Barry. An annual Christmas tradition the guests were Rodney and Lucille Betts, Aunt Ilo Stevenson, Uncle Thurman Betts, Jack and Janet Betts with Sabrina, Charmaine, Kelly and Doug, Mrs. Betty Shonkwiler all localities, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lozier, Bob and Flo Betts and their twin sons Garry and Larry with his mate Mary Betts, Mrs. Caniz Carmean and daughter Margie all from Roundtown and Grandma B (Agnes Brayshaw) of down Woodlyn way. Christmas eve at the Brayshaw home was shared with Grandma B and Miss Jan Thompson of near Fox.

The hospitality of Wayne and Janet Carter's home encompassed Mary Alice Greenwood and son Ronald during the holidays. On Christmas Day Miss Terry Carter was a guest in the Greenwood home.

Making it another family affair were Oscar and Rosie

Atwood with guests being Wayne and Janice Atwood, Leslie and Lisa of down Laurelvillie way, Phyllis Shaw and son Johnny Hudak, Denzil and Lois Wright and Brian and Miss Becky Atwood (a niece) and her b.f. of Chillicothe.

Pete and Pearl Cochenour made their traditional annual sojourn to Bill and Vallie Long's home at Daartown and enjoyed all the excitement of the holiday with grandchildren Becky, Jackie, Brett and Jeff. They returned home Monday.

John and Minnie Steinhauser and Jonda tripped to Athens to be with Jeff and Jill Garmire and John Carl on Sunday. This was a first Christmas for John Carl. Jonda will return to studies at Otterbein on Monday.

The Galloway four, Charlie, Ethel, Dena and Brenda spent Christmas with Ethel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gilmore of near Five Points.

Making the home scene for Christmas and all its joys were Rick Fenstermaker of Olde Town, Maine, Bill and Nancy Heskett of Austin Texas, Becky Fenstermaker, student at University of Kentucky and unfortunately she has been felled by that meanie bug "mono." The Heskettas are sharing their vacation time with Dr. Paul and Irma Fenstermaker and sister Rae and with Bill's parents at Springfield.

Renewing friendship ties on Christmas night were Nancy, Linda Vance of Derby and Lynn Straley, a teacher in the Laurelvillie school system. Linda is now associated with a newspaper in Washington D.C. and had jetted home for the holiday. She planned to drive solo back to D. C. on Sunday. I know all these "goodies," because the Vances (Chaney and Jane graciously extended an invitation to our family and Fernando to be with them on Christmas as a afternoon since among their dinner guests was a couple from Brazil who are graduate students at O.S.U. It was most kind of them to think of us and Fernando enjoyed meeting folks from his home country or continent I should say. He particularly enjoyed talking with Barbara Vance who had studied Spanish and helpfully explained many points of interest to him. Larry Vance and his mate and their adorable two year old Becky of Bucyrus (I think) were also at the Vances. Jerrold Fields and Greg Rickabaugh stopped in during the afternoon and entertained all willing "souls" to a ride on a Model T — open air style!

Fernando has thoroughly enjoyed Christmas in Williamsport, with his foster family and relatives and the many friends who have helped make this a happy time for a young man so many miles from home. A part of it all has been John and Norma Gillfillan, Jo Lynne and Keith (Chip) of Troy, Mrs. Frances Easterday and Dorothy, Mrs. Mildred Hardman of Chillicothe, Mr. Jim Montgomery of our town, Mrs. Ron Beatty, Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood nad Ron, the John Graffis, the Thompsons, Mrs. Linda Hughes of Columbus, Roger and Sue Beck, Mr. Wellington and several Westfall classmates.

Miss Twila West was among those who had Christmas dinner with Nathan and Helen Hyde of Clarksburg. Once again we were the happy recipients of those mouth melting positively delicious caramels that Miss West makes. Divine!

It was a busy, fun filled day for Charlie and Esther Picklesimer and Faith Ann. First of all they were part of the guest list for Christmas dinner (noon time) with dad Elbert and his Vi Picklesimer. Others were Jim and Rosie Picklesimer, J. F., Mindy and Kelly, Bob and Rosemary Picklesimer of Mt. Sterling. That evening the welcome mat was out at their home for Dave and Janet Lovett and Trent of Athens, Brad and Donna Thompson and Marci of Circleville, Mike and Gail Stauffer, Andy and Brent locally, the Bob Picklesimers of Mt. Sterling.

Esther says it was a full house all afternoon week ago Sunday when the fiftieth anniversary open house for parents Darl and Bessie was held. The golden couple received many lovely gifts in tribute to their accomplishment. Granddaughters, Janet Lovett, Donna Thompson, Connie Drum and grand daughter in-law Ginger Smalley Stant presided at the punch bowl and refreshment table. Special callers were Darl's only sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Roll of Hallsville and Mrs. Mary Linton, a cose friend and neighbor for many, many years.

At the Carl Long abode, Bonnie is home for holiday vacation from nursing studies at Holzer Hospital, Gallipolis and will return this weekend. Brad Beatty overnighed Christmas eve with good buddy Johnny Long and spent the day with him. Homer and Alma Long drove in for the afternoon with the family.

Exchanging gifts, eating good food, happy family time — that's what makes Christmas and so it was on Christmas eve at the home of Bob and Pat Metzger and their two "dollers", Crystal and Lori when gathered around were Carl and Mary Gearheart and Marion (Tom) and Katherine Metzger Carter and their Diana and Barbara of Celina. The two Carter girls had been here for a few days making life merry for grandparents, aunts and uncles and cousins.

On Christmas Day the Bob Metzgers were with Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Jones of Frankfort.

Ruth Plummer was a part of the family circle at sister Gladys Arledge and her Jack's home. Their son Harry and his family of Delaware completed the Christmas Day picture. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Amorine of Columbus came calling on Ruth.

"Bus" and Helen Whitten and Jim entertained at Christmas dinner, Carroll and Sandy Whitten and youngsters of Frankfort.

As you can see, there was much entertaining in our town during the holiday and this only scratched the surface. There was much, much more but the Herald only allots me a column not the entire newspaper. Maybe we can make it a continued story, hey?

Shucks, I must mention that Paul and Louise Drummond hosted a student from Formosa in their home for the Christmas holiday. He is currently a graduate student at O.S.U. Christmas in America! Nothing like it any place else, no way.

Don Greene continues a patient at Brown Hospital (Veterans) at Dayton and a world of encouragement and cheer would go a long way.

Mrs. Linda Hughes (Cora Beatty's sister) entered University Hospital on Monday to undergo a series of tests and observations. Cards would do much to brighten her day, too.

NHL Awards Franchises To Groups

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're in the market for a National Hockey League franchise and trying to figure out how much money you'll need, the answer will depend on a couple of factors.

Three new NHL owners were announced Thursday and it cost each group a different amount of money to join hockey's big league.

The NHL awarded franchises in Long Island, N.Y., and Atlanta and shortly afterwards, one of its most successful franchises, the Montreal Canadiens, was sold.

A group headed by Roy Boe, owner of the American Basketball Association's New York Nets, paid $11 million for the Long Island franchise—$6 million to the league and an additional $5 million to the New York Rangers for invading the older club's territorial rights.

Atlanta's franchise, priced at $6 million, was awarded to a group headed by Bill Putnam, former president of the Philadelphia Flyers, one of the NHL's first expansion teams. When the Flyers and five other franchises were added to the NHL in 1967, the price was $2 million.

The Canadiens, whose history of success is unmatched in the NHL, were sold to a group of Canadian businessmen headed by Montreal lawyer Jacques Courtois. The group purchased approximately 700,000 of the 1.25 million shares in the Canadian Arena Company for an estimated $15 million. The purchase gives the new owners control of the NHL club, the recently renovated Montreal Forum where the team plays its home games, and the Nova Scotia Voyageurs, Montreal's American League farm team.

The addition of Long Island and Atlanta increased the NHL to 16 franchises—10 more than the league had five years ago when the first expansion was announced.

Roller Skates

Being Confiscated

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — City police say they have begun confiscating roller skates from children who appear to be using them irresponsibly because police say they're a traffic hazard.

A number of minor accidents involving roller skating youngsters have been reported since Christmas and at least three other youths have been hurt seriously, police said Wednesday.

Lament Is Written

For Tvardovsky

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian Nobel laureate Alexander Solzhenitsyn has written a lament for Alexander Tvardovsky, criticizing the members of the Soviet literary establishment who ousted the late poet as editor of a prestigious literary journal.

Tvardovsky, one of the Soviet Union's leading literary liberals, died of a stroke Dec. 18 after a long bout with lung cancer. He was removed as editor of Novy Mir—New World—last year.

UCLA Wins Tourney, Tops OSU

By BERT ROSENTHAL Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA's national-leading scoring average suffered, but the Bruins' record thrived and so did its ability to work a full-court press.

Once-beaten Missouri won its first Big Eight Conference pre-season championship since 1954, trimming Kansas State 67-58 for its 10th victory. Sophomore Al Eberhard paced the Tigers with 21 points.

Charlie Mitchell pumped in 33 points, boosting Eastern Kentucky to an 83-78 triumph over Oklahoma City and the title in the All-College Tournament.

Undefeated and unranked Duquesne captured the Steel Bowl championship, routing Pitt 87-67 behind sophomore Lionel Billingsly's 35 points. It was the Dukes eighth victory.

Florida State earned the title in the Far West Classic, subduing Washington State 85-61. Joe Sutter, who scored 22 points, hit three field goals late in the game, lifting Davidson to an 83-73 victory over Virginia Tech in the final of the Charlotte Invitational Tourney.

Clemson, sparked by Dave Angel's 27 points and 22 rebounds downed Auburn 77-67.

In another upset, 16th-ranked Maryland routed ninth-rated St. John's N.Y. 90-69 in the final of the Maryland Invitational Christmas Tournament. Jim O'Brien scored 20 points for the Terrapins, who won their eighth game in nine starts.

However, Len Elmore, who collected only seven points but grabbed 18 rebounds, blocked numerous shots and stole several passes was named the tourney's most valuable player.

Meanwhile, North Carolina's globetrotting Tarheels wore down stubborn Bradley 75-69 for the Sugar Bowl Tournament title. For the fourth-ranked Tarheels, it was their sixth victory in eight days and their third tourney championship.

Previously, they won the Big Four in North Carolina and the International Christmas Tournament in Spain.

Virginia, No. 11, remained unbeaten, defeating The Citadel 77-72 for the championship in the Palmetto Classic. Barry Parkhill's 21 points led the Cavaliers, who gained their ninth victory.

Ron Thomas' 28 points and Jim Price's 25 helped 15th-ranked Louisville whip Fordham 77-60 in the Cardinal Cup.

Washington (AP) — Producers of machinery, food and newsprint are among the concerns whose price increases have been approved by the Price Commission.

The action brought to 382 the number of increases approved by the commission. There have been 11 denials.

Massey-Ferguson Inc. was granted an average 4.82 per cent hike for farm, industrial and construction machinery, recreation products and vehicles.

Akzona Inc. Pfeiffer's Foods Inc., won a 5.2 per cent increase for its salad dressing.

Crown Zellerbach Corp. received approval for a 5.16 per cent increase in newsprint.

Jail sentences are imposed in Tennessee in connection with big game violations.

for the Poinsettia Classic championship.

Northwestern took the Shreveport Invitational title, stopping Centenary 89-82 as Vernon Wilson led the way with 28 points.

Larry Garloch's two free throws with one second remaining enabled Miami, Ohio to squeeze past William and Mary 69-67 for the championship of the Tangerine Bowl Classic.

Tracy Tripucka's 23 points helped Lafayette beat George Washington 85-74 for the title in the Garden State Classic.

Arnie Berman and Rich Cureton each sank two free throws in the final minute, giving Brown a 70-69 decision over Morris Harvey in the final of the Hall of Fame Tournament.

Oral Roberts, playing a major schedule this season for the first time, won the Oral Roberts Classic, thrashing Loyola, Los Angeles 103-86 as Richie Fuqua scored 30 points.

The Quaker City Tournament began with Canisius overcoming Long Island 86-76 and Niagara crushing Cornell 96-69. The game was the first for Cornell since a boycott early this month by its black players in an apparent dispute over their use in games.

Dwight Lamar, the nation's leading scorer, connected for 40 points and Roy Ebron added 35 as 13th-ranked Southwest Louisiana trimmed California State-Los Angeles 113-102.

Marshall, rated 17th, held off Ohio University 88-81 as Russell Lee scored 26 points.

The Business World

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission recommendations delivered to Congress this week, that the commission be given stronger powers to regulate the investment business, reflects the temper of the past few years.

Self-regulation, the SEC report suggested, has failed. The notion that harmony exists between the interests of the public and the personal interests of the men and institutions of the market is being dispelled.

The next step appears almost pre-ordained: A reduction in the decision-making powers of those who comprise the market and a transfer of that power to the government. In effect the SEC so recommended.

Forty years of experience led to the conclusion that more regulatory power must reside with the government, less with the industry.

The market collapse of 1929 brought about serious doubts about the efficacy of self-regulation, but the concept was retained, at least in principle.

The market collapsed again in the late 1960s, but in a different way, and self-regulation again came under attack as self-serving.

How does this relate to other changes in the business climate in recent years? There appears to be growing disillusionment with the ability of business to satisfy the public.

Whether or not his dissatisfaction results mainly from a change of attitude by the public, or whether it represents a genuine failure on the part of business, is debatable. It is also, to some degree, irrelevant.

The fact is that the railroads have largely forsaken their rights to haul passengers over long distances, that role being assumed by the National Railroad Passenger Corp., set up by Congress with grants and loans.

The private health insurance industry has been in what it feels is a life-death struggle to retain its buine at pressure continue for some sort of national health insurance plan.

The disaffection with business is most loudly proclaimed by the rise of consumerism and the concern with environment. Both movement—if they are not one and the same—charge business with being not only irresponsible but irresponsible a well.

But let it be assumed that the country is set conclusively on a course of greater regulation, it should be noted that some of the most successful companies are those which have learned to respond to the new demands.

The securities industry certainly had its chances.

Bruce Cabot Home From Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Veteran film actor Bruce Cabot has been released from the Loma Linda University Medical Center after responding to radiation treatment for lung and throat cancer.

A hospital spokesman said Wednesday that Cabot, 67, was in "satisfactory condition." He was admitted last Oct. 26 in critical condition.

Cabot had parts in more than 300 films including a lead in the classic "King Kong."

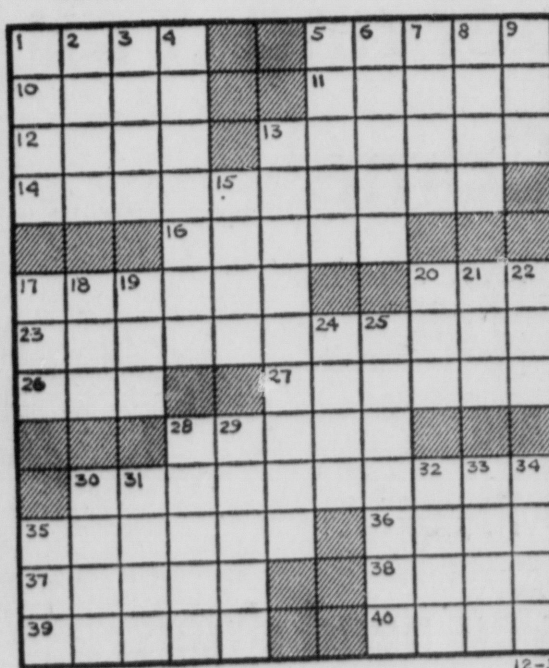

Muhammad Ali In Saudi Arabia

BEIRUT (AP)—Former world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali is in Saudi Arabia for visits to Islam's holiest shrines.

Jidda radio said Ali arrived in Jidda Wednesday, where hundreds of admirers greeted him at the airport.

The Business World

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission recommendations delivered to Congress this week, that the commission be given stronger powers to regulate the investment business, reflects the temper of the past few years.

Self-regulation, the SEC report suggested, has failed. The notion that harmony exists between the interests of the public and the personal interests of the men and institutions of the market is being dispelled.

The next step appears almost pre-ordained: A reduction in the decision-making powers of those who comprise the market and a transfer of that power to the government. In effect the SEC so recommended.

Forty years of experience led to the conclusion that more regulatory power must reside with the government, less with the industry.

The market collapse of 1929 brought about serious doubts about the efficacy of self-regulation, but the concept was retained, at least in principle.

The market collapsed again in the late 1960s, but in a different way, and self-regulation again came under attack as self-serving.

How does this relate to other changes in the business climate in recent years? There appears to be growing disillusionment with the ability of business to satisfy the public.

Whether or not his dissatisfaction results mainly from a change of attitude by the public, or whether it represents a genuine failure on the part of business, is debatable. It is also, to some degree, irrelevant.

The fact is that the railroads have largely forsaken their rights to haul passengers over long distances, that role being assumed by the National Railroad Passenger Corp., set up

Impressive 1971 Weather Retires Quietly Today

Can't complain about the weather this year, Pickaway County.

We've really had our share of nice days.

It all started in January, when the snow and rain could combine for only 1.63 total inches, better than an inch and a half below normal.

Schools were closed for the first time in January, much to the kids' delight. But it wasn't due to snow. The county had been experiencing an infrequent shower when the thermometer dipped and iced the roads on January 13.

The bad spell continued and the county got their first snowfall four days later. An inch and a half fell on Jan. 17 and the temperature dropped to the lowest mark for the year on that day — minus 3 degrees.

Worst snowfall of 1971 fell Feb. 8, when we were blasted with 8 to 10 inches. Still the month ended with only a plus water count of about an inch.

March was extremely dry, recording 1.82 inches less than normal.

But the biggest surprise, weatherwise, of 1971 was April. She came in like the proverbial Lion — recording the last snowfall of the year on the fifth day — but went out like a true Lamb.

fell during the month, and that was almost three inches less than average.

May and June had more rain than they should have, according to the average — but it only amounted to about a half an inch both months.

July was a hot month — showing the highest temperature of the year with a sweltering 91. The month was also an inch and a half behind on rainfall.

September, mild throughout, showed only a plus .07 rain total.

October, not typically dry, was an inch behind the average, while November, showing the first snowfall of late winter 1971 on Nov. 22, was also about an inch behind.

Last snowfall of 1971 was just flurries on Dec. 17.

The year ended today better than 7 inches behind average. December was a wet month however, finishing about a half an inch ahead of normal.

Half of the 4.5 million people who work in London work in the central area.

Solons Eye Plan To Ease House Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposals to ease up on some of the House's year-old "reform" rules and tighten up others are being considered by a special committee that will present its recommendations to the Democratic leadership next month.

If approved by the leaders, the proposals will be presented to the Democratic caucus at the start of the 1972 session and then to the House itself.

One of the most far-reaching rules that went into effect last January provides for publication of how members voted on teller votes, which are used to dispose of many major amendments.

Formerly, members simply walked down an aisle and were counted but not listed by name. The new rule provides for publication of the names of those voting and how they voted if 20 members demand it.

The publication provision has resulted in better attendance when key proposals are voted on.

But there have been com-
